Avon Park, Fla., October 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—With his own revolver, Love Rogers, coffee counter, Georgia, lumberman, was slain by his own brother, Alton, last November, during a quarrel between Alton Rogers and her husband, Love Rogers, in his home, according to a confession made by Mrs. Rogers today to Sheriff R. H. Hancock, of Sebring county, Florida, and Sheriff Tanner, of Coffee county, Georgia. She admits, however, her husband was unarmed at the time. Alton Rogers, charged by Georgia authorities with the murder, stoically denies all knowledge of the crime. Sheriff Tanner left Sebring, the county seat, at 5:30 today for Douglas, Ga., with his two prisoners.

An attempt by Mrs. Rogers to commit suicide yesterday was frustrated by a friend, according to Sheriff Hancock. Mrs. Rogers claims she and Alton Rogers were married three months ago, but after questioning by Sheriff Hancock, she could not remember where the wedding took place, the sheriff said.

"He had to do it," said Mrs. Rogers, when finally she wilted under the severe questioning to which both sheriffs subjected her.

A dark spot, believed to be blood, lately discovered in the home of Love Rogers in Georgia, and two rows of cotton planted wider apart than the others in the Rogers garden were the reminders by which Mrs. Rogers' complicity was broken.

"Why are those two rows of cotton planted further apart, on the other side of the fence?" demanded Sheriff Tanner, and Mrs. Rogers winced. Seeing his opportunity, the officer snapped, "And whose blood is that in front of the fireplace?" Mrs. Rogers raised an arm as if to shield her face and then poured forth her story to the officers, punctuating it frequently with cries of "he had to do it; the boy had to do it."

Mrs. Rogers declared that her husband came home intoxicated on the night he was killed and began to abuse her, threatening her until Alton intervened when Love Rogers turned on him and, during the quarrel, Alton seized a revolver from a mantel, where it had laid, Mrs. Rogers said, for a long time, and fired several shots at his brother, killing him.

An entirely different story is told by Alton Rogers. He denies knowledge of the crime and says that one of the dead man's neighbors had once shot at him, because of Love's friendship.

Little Ads
With Big Ideas

Constitution Want Ads are something like bankbooks—you can tell how important they are from their size!

Some of the world's greatest ideas have been expressed in surprisingly few words. Lincoln's Gettysburg address contains but 226 words; the Ten Commandments 297; the Declaration of Independence, 1,321; and the Constitution of the United States 2,294.

Big ideas are being put before the people of Atlanta through The Constitution's Want Ad columns every day by the use of a few well-chosen words.

A little ad of from 25 to 30 words will sell a property worth thousands of dollars, find a buyer for a high-grade used car, sell out a business—or do any of the hundreds of important things that could be asked of it any day of the year. You'll find some interesting and profitable ideas every time you read through The Constitution's Want Ad columns. When you want to use an ad of your own call Main 5000 and ask for the Want Ad Department.

Eyes on U. S., Aswell Says

The only thing which prevents a new war from breaking out and destroying the last vestige of civilization in Europe is the overwhelming poverty and misery of the peoples of that continent, was the opinion expressed Wednesday by Congressman James B. Aswell, of the eighth congressional district of Louisiana, before the chamber of commerce forum.

Picturing the situation in Europe as he had found it during a recent extended visit, the democratic leader described it as a "seething hotbed of jealousies, hatreds, feuds and unspeakable bitterness."

"A new hatred is being born in the Ruhr area that will never die. Elsewhere I found the nations ready to fly at each other's throats. Burdened under new taxes, divided from kinsfolk through the arbitrary settlement of boundaries, split up and constantly kept in a turmoil the nations are restless, their currency is worthless, their credit has vanished and one hundred million persons have fastened their eyes on their last hope—emigration to America," the speaker said.

Atlanta Is Considered as Location If Theological School Is Moved From Columbia, S. C.

Savannah, Ga., October 17.—(Special.)—Action was taken this afternoon at the session of the Presbyterian synod of Georgia, which is interpreted to mean that so far as the organization in Georgia can make it possible, there may be a way open for the establishment of a great theological seminary in Georgia for the denomination, possibly in Atlanta.

Recommendation was made by a special committee upon a communication from the board of trustees of the Columbia Theological seminary, Columbia, S. C., which is controlled by the synod of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, requesting that the board be empowered to survey the field and if suitable location is found in the bounds of the three states, outside of Columbia, where sufficient financial support may be obtained, the seminary be removed from Columbia; further, that if no such opportunity presents itself that the board be authorized to complete arrangements for consolidation of the seminary with Union Theological seminary at Richmond, Va.

The afternoon session was consumed in earnest discussion and debate upon the matter and a resolution offered by Dr. J. S. Lyons, of Atlanta, was adopted, authorizing the board, so far as the Georgia synod has power to allow, to look over the field and if possible find a location for the seminary within the bounds of the controlling synods, and, if not, synods decline to grant authority to combine it with another institution beyond the bounds of the three states mentioned, except upon reference and consent of the synod of Georgia.

Compromise Plan.
Dr. Lyons' resolution was a compromise substitute for the recommendation of Dr. E. L. Morris, of Atlanta. Dr. Wells, president of Columbia seminary, and Dr. Sims, a member of the board, has presented the situation of the seminary to the body. It was frankly stated that the seminary has more students than it can care for with present equipment and it has not received financial support to keep it going; that there is a heavy deficit and the board is facing a serious crisis; that a definite offer of consolidation with Union seminary, Richmond, had been made; that the majority of the board were in favor of such early consolidation as a way out of an immediate and rather desperate situation.

It came out that conferences have been held in Atlanta with prominent laymen and ministers and the Columbia management and some members of the board and that there was a distinct desire upon the part of many to remove Columbia seminary to Georgia, and locate it in Atlanta.

Opinion Divided.
The synod voiced a divided opinion—some favoring union with the Richmond institution and others clinging to the hope to remove the institution, which has been in Columbia for ninety-seven years, to a more central point in the territory.

BY T. J. BRYSON.

Rome, Ga., October 17.—(Special.) With the election of officers taking place tomorrow, interest of the delegates to the convention of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, in session here, centers tonight on the announcement that the nominating committee has completed its ticket which will be submitted to the convention Thursday.

Consensus of opinion is that Mrs. Nichols Peterson, of Titon, will be the nominating committee's choice for director, and Mrs. A. P. Brantley, the nominee for president. If this information is correct it will doubtless come as a surprise to some who have been confidently predicting that the committee would bring forth the names of all three candidates, thus leaving the decision up to the general body. From seemingly entirely authentic sources, however, it comes that the committee did no such thing, but nominated only one candidate as has been its custom in the past.

That the names of others will be put in nomination from the floor if it develops that the committee has nominated only one candidate, is conceded on all sides. Color to this belief is lent by reports that a number of delegates who have not been in attendance on the meetings here up to now are coming to Rome early tomorrow morning for the express purpose of voting.

For a time today there was considerable speculation in many quarters as to what political significance was to be attached to the making up of the election from Friday morning until tomorrow afternoon. So far as can be ascertained, however, the change was made simply for the reason that there was seen a possibility of the election ending in a tie. In such case it is pointed out, if the election were not held until Friday there would be no time for a runoff.

Decision to establish permanent headquarters for the Georgia federation in Atlanta was one of the outstanding resolutions of the morning session, this action being recommended by Mrs. Hays, president, and Mrs. Samuel Inman, director. Saylor Is Suicide in Jail

To Keep Wife From Want

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

After making a noose of his wife's apron, Robert Saylor fastened it to the top of his cell and hanged himself until he strangled to death early Wednesday night at the Atlanta police station. It was his third and last attempt to commit suicide within a month. Two weeks ago he jumped into the Chattahoochee river but was dragged to safety, and only a few days ago he tried to end his life by lying across a railroad track in one of the local yards.

While he climbed on his bunk to fasten the noose and slowly swung the weight of his body away from his foot, his last thoughts were of his life's companion, his wife who was under detention in the matron's ward upstairs. Thursday they were to leave the police station and go to the poorhouse.

But Thursday never came for "Bob."

It was no philosophical contemplation on the futility of life that made the old man seek the utter darkness of death. It was want. Want in the midst of plenty. It was old-age and Resolution urging that creditors insist that farmers use calcium arsenate to protect their cotton were passed by the Southern Fertilizer association at its session here Wednesday during which E. L. Fertilizer men, bankers and merchants were urged to insist on use of calcium arsenate before advancing credit to farmers. The resolutions also favored the procurement of an adequate supply of the poison at reasonable prices and its distribution to help in order that farmers may protect their crops.

Newly-elected officers of the association are E. L. Robbins, Meridian, president; Ned Hodgson, Athens, vice president; Ernest E. Dallis, Atlanta, secretary-treasurer; J. Russell Porter, Atlanta; J. C. Adams, Montgomery; J. G. McCormick, Wilmington; J. Ross Hanahan, Charleston; T. G. Sinclair, Shreveport, and Clarence Schultz, Norfolk, were named members of the soil improvement committee; J. C. BRITAIN SAYS HANDS

Paris, October 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—Consideration by the reparations commission today of the documents submitted by the Belgians brought out the fact that the British member, Sir John Bradbury, regards the commission's hands as tied for the present, or until the wider aspects of the problem are settled by the interested governments.

He believes that Chancellor Stresemann's recent declaration giving promise of the necessary German cooperation provided the important questions of the total to be paid and the time to be given for payment can first be settled by the allies. It is understood on good authority that Louis Barthou, the French representative and president of the commission, agrees with Sir John that the commission can accomplish little until the governments have arrived at a basis of settlement. Senator Smoot Advises
Coolidge To Play Safe
and Keep Door Closed on Subject.

PROGRESSIVES ITCH TO RIP G. O. P. APART

Solon From Utah Is Member of Congress Group
Favoring No Shackles on Business.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, October 17.—Republican leaders in congress are advising President Coolidge to turn a deaf ear to the suggestion that he can make a big hit with the country by lowering taxes.

Their reason is that once the door to tax revision is opened, the progressives would shoulder their way through the administrative watchmen and wreck any prearranged plans. Progressives are looking for a chance to fix additional taxes on great incomes. Any move by the administration to cut taxes would open up the whole political fight which the progressives are itching to stage.

This, in substance, is what Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, told President Coolidge at his visit Wednesday when he went to advise the president regarding the tax question. Smoot is the chairman of the senate finance committee and is regarded as the best informed man on taxation in the senate.

Senator Knows His Eggs.

He represents the group that favors untrammeled business, but he is also a sagacious politician, and while he might personally favor cutting the surtax maximum down to 25 per cent, as Secretary Mellon proposes, his political sense tells him that it would be wiser to permit big business to struggle along under the 50 per cent maximum than to expose the republic to the threshold of presidential year.

Mellon, elated with the administrative savings through the economy program and the unexpected increases in income tax and customs receipts, proposed last spring that surtaxes be cut. Shortly after Harding came in he proposed cutting them from 65 per cent—where they stood then—to 25 per cent.

Progressives, not very powerful then, howled this down as a salient to big business, and finding accepted 50 per cent as a compromise. Now the progressives virtually hold the balance of power, and if the tax problem is raised again, they are likely, under the leadership of Senator La Follette and with the assistance of the democrats, to wreck the republican plans.

More Calls in Store.

For the administration to propose lower taxes on big incomes and then be repudiated by saving congress, technically republican, enact higher taxes on big incomes, would be a well-nigh fatal performance on the eve of a presidential campaign, so the uneasiness in congress reason. If there is any change at all it should be in the lower brackets, Smoot thinks.

Therefore, according to Smoot, a number of other house and senate leaders will call upon Coolidge in the near future to urge this viewpoint upon him. Representative Green, of Iowa, who will be chairman of the house ways and means committee, recently predicted that there would be no reductions.

School Board Meets in Special Session Today
To Draw New Paper
Which Will Be Legal.

MAYOR WILL APPROVE
NEW CONTRACT FORM

School Officials Blame
Situation on Delay in Picking Site and Collapse of Property Sale.

Despite the plea of more than 100 citizens, the majority of whom were women, for favorable action on the contract for erection of the senior high school for girls, Mayor Walter A. Sims, Wednesday afternoon, following a spirited meeting at the city hall, announced that he will veto the contract on the grounds that the city has not the money with which to carry out the terms stipulated.

The mayor's announcement came following a written ruling by City Attorney James L. Mayson to the effect that such a contract calling for expenditure of $402,000, with only a fourth of this sum available for erection of the school, was decidedly illegal. Under the circumstances, Mr. Mayson held, the city could not enter into a binding contract that called for expenditure of funds not in hand or anticipated from tangible receipts during the remainder of 1923.

Board To Redraw Contract.

Members of the board of education, determined that work on the new senior high school for girls shall begin immediately, even if work on the senior high school for boys is held up in order to re-appportion funds to the former project, announced that a special meeting of the board would be held at 12 o'clock today with a view to drawing a new contract which will insure the mayor's approval.

At the special session of the school board it is planned to draw a new contract which will stipulate the erection of only certain units of the Girls' High school during the remainder of this year and to add other units to it after the January, 1924, finance sheet is made up and the remaining funds are actually available or in sight during next year. Such a contract would be legal, Mr. Mayson said.

Mayor Sims assured members of the board of education that he would sign the new contract and that he would bend his every effort to start work on the girls' school immediately.

Call Special Council Session.

"As soon as the board takes this action," declared Mayor Sims, "I shall call a special meeting of city council to insure the matter expedient attention and when it reaches me after receiving council's approval I will gladly approve it. There is no one in Atlanta who is more vitally interested in the erection of the girls' high school than I."

"Mr. Mayson has studied the present contract, with infinite care and has ruled that it is illegal. Therefore, I have no other recourse but to send it back to council without my approval."

The contract proposed for the

C. F. von HERRMANN,
Meteorologist, Weather Bureau.

major's indorsement was approved by the board of education at its regular session last Tuesday, and received the concurrence of the bond commission and city council at subsequent meetings. It provided that the Girls' High school should be erected on the stock side site in Grant Park, at a cost of $402,290 and would be ready for occupancy September 1, 1924.

Only $85,000 in hand.

A check of school funds available for carrying out the terms of the contract revealed approximately $85,000 in cash deposited in local banks of the recent school bond funds. Members of the board of education declared that this sum would be increased to approximately $250,000 with bond funds aggregating $112,965 which were turned back to the city as savings on erection costs of other school projects, and the sale of two lots for $50,000 owned by the schools department.

With this amount certain, it was the intention of the board to ask council for an appropriation of $100,000 at the beginning of 1924 and to also request the county commissioners for a similar amount. The remaining $50,000 would have been appropriated by the board from its current revenues of 1924, members stated.

Mr. Mayson's ruling was that such a contract would be binding on the city, and that the entire amount of the contract price must be on hand in the banks, or included in the finance sheet as anticipated revenues from 1923 receipts of the city.

Mayson's Ruling.

His ruling, transmitted in a letter to Mayor Sims, follows in full:

"I beg to advise that the apportionment sheet was amended, at the last meeting of the council, by appropriating to the Boys' High school and the Girls' High school, respectively, $112,965.00. This is not much needed building. But I do not the Boys or Girls' High school buildings. When the contract for the Boys' High school building was entered into there was a resolution passed providing for the sale of real estate and estimating that same would bring $482,450. I advised that the receipts from this sale, if estimated to be received during the present year, could be used as a basis for contract. Accordingly, council estimated that the receipts from this sale would amount to $482,450 and appropriated one-half each to the Boys and Girls' High school buildings, at or about the same time the contract for the Boys' High school was directed to be entered into and at this date based on the estimated receipts from the sale of the real estate and on the balance of school bonds unexpended, together with savings and interest, there was sufficient funds to cover the cost of the Boys' High school, using one-half of the estimated receipts from the sale of real estate as above mentioned.

"The real estate has been sold and it develops that the proceeds thereof are not available during the present year, only $96,865 being on hand. This leaves a deficit for current receipts with which to meet the contract for the Boys' High school.

Money Not in Hand.

"I do not see any way by which we can figure that there is enough money in hand or from estimated receipts, during the present year, to cover the contract for the Girls' High school building.

"Assuming that $225,022.50 was available for apportionment and was not already covered by contract for the Boys' High school, the apportionment of $112,965.25 to the Girls' High school, would not be sufficient to cover the contract price which is $493,000.

"I understand that the plan by which this building is undertaken, namely, that the city will use only a portion of this money on the building during the present year, and that in 1924, there will be added to this fund enough money with which to complete the building, but our charter provides that no money may be in hand or available from estimated receipts, during the current year, with which to meet any contract into which the city enters.

Contract Form Ineffective.

"I also understand that the plan contemplates that this building will be undertaken by the city on the cost-plus plan, and therefore, the city can stop any time it finds it necessary. However, we are again confronted with the same difficulty; namely, the city itself cannot undertake any contract which calls for an estimated expenditure without having in hand or in sight during the year, the money with which to cover the cost of the building. In the succeeding year with which to pay the balance.

"I know the difficulties under which the school board and the city labor; that is, that they have not enough money in hand to do very much needed building. But I do not think this would legalize a contract where there is not enough money in hand or to be received, during the current year, to cover the estimated expenditure.

"I therefore advise that, in my opinion, the city would not be authorized to make a contract for construction of the Girls' High school building under the facts above mentioned on the sum now apportioned therefor."

Hartsfield Asks Approval.

Alderman W. B. Hartsfield, of the third ward, led the delegation, which included Mrs. John T. Thompson, president of the Girls' High School Teachers' association; John H. McClelland, attorney; Alderman J. L. Carpenter, of the eleventh ward; Councilman J. Allen Couch, of the fifth ward; W. W. Gaines, president of the board of education; W. L. McCallie, Jr., of the board; and Mrs. Z. T. Peterson, of the board, and others.

Superintendent Willis A. Sutton, of public schools, issued a formal statement, in which he urged the mayor to sign the contract in order that work might begin at once on the Girls' High school.

"I wish to state that it has never been the fault of the board of education nor the school administration that there has been any delay on the Girls' High school," Dr. Sutton said.

"The very first fight that was fought out by the bond commission and the member of the board of education was the location for the Girls' High school. Four times the school board has approved sites for this school. The delay has always been occasioned by those who fought for a particular site or fought against a particular site."

Aliens Mentally Unfit.

"Of the 1,700,000 men and boys of foreign birth called by draft for service in the United States during the war, 1,000,000 could not be accepted because they had the mentality of children less than 10 years old.

"The United States may have been an asylum in the past but it must cease to be an asylum for the off-scourings of Europe if it wishes to maintain its identity."

The congressman said that he fully agreed with Secretary of Labor James J. Davis in advocating a plan of selective immigration at the port of embarkation. "It is the most tragic experience for an immigrant to reach Ellis Island and there to be rejected and be forced to go back 3,000 miles across the ocean, penniless and without hope, back to the misery of that distressed continent.

"That's why I want to see the next congress put a bill on the statute books appointing American officers for European ports so that prospective immigrants may be selected and examined there," he said.

"The present restrictions on immigration, based on the census of 1910, which allows an influx of 3 per cent of the number of nationals already in the United States, must be amended and the figure must be based on the census of 1920. That will give us a greater number of northwestern Europeans and will make us miss the immigration figures from southeastern Europe for the past twenty years," Mr. Aswell said.

Must Assign Work.

"Prospective immigrants examined by American officials at European ports, if unskilled laborers, must agree to go on the land. They must also declare their willingness to go wherever they are most needed. They must be registered upon reaching Ellis Island. We must keep track of them. We must know what they are doing. How they are getting along and whether they will be entitled to become full-fledged citizens of the republic.

"We must see to it that the number of 50,000 non-protestants and enemies of all government, whom we have in this country at the present time, does not increase and spread the doctrine of social unrest, of atheism and bolshevism. The only way to prevent the number from growing ever larger is by registration."

Mr. Aswell also advocated an extension of the term of years necessary to obtain citizenship.

"I would have an all-first give some sign of his love for this country, for its ideals and institutions and a clear manifestation that he is in sympathy with the principles and ideals of American life before giving him a right to run the government of this country," he said.

Red Rule For Germany.

Speaking of Germany, the congressman said that he expected a

Y. M. C. A. CON CON STUDIES SYSTEM

Cleveland, Ohio, October 17.—A constitution which would create an international council and an important judiciary was submitted to the opening session of the constitutional convention of the Y. M. C. A., which is attempting to set up a supervisory machine for the 2,000 local associations in the United States and Canada. The day was devoted mostly to organization.

The constitution was proposed by Judson G. Rosebush, Appleton, Wis., manufacturer. It is the first of at least a dozen other drafts of a fundamental law which will be submitted to the 450 delegates to eliminate duplication of work and overlapping of activities.

The Rosebush draft would codify in part many of the present practices, eliminate some obsolete practices and substitute others, its author said.

"It preserves the integrity of the present state organizations," Mr. Rosebush said. Local associations would be wholly supervised by their state organizations but supervision by the national council would be given to such activities as college and railroad Y. M. C. A.'s which can show they are truly national in character. The international council would have the right to tax the local associations.

Ratification of 1,000 locals is necessary to adopt the Rosebush draft, which permits amendments by vote of two-thirds of the locals.

Dr. John C. Acheson, president of the Kentucky College for Women at Danville, was elected president of the permanent organization, effected by a committee with one member from each state. J. C. Armstrong, of Brooklyn, was chosen secretary. Five vice presidents were elected.

With the convention scheduled to last through October 20, there was much impatience manifested today for a speeding up that would permit the gathering to end its business this week if possible. A majority of the delegates are laymen anxious to return to their business affairs.

they want to send to America are the undesirable, the ones whom we find to be socially inadequate. In Bulgaria 50,000 ex-convicts were given the choice of continuing to serve their sentence or go to the United States. Of course they went to America. America is the asylum, the place where all may go.

"I am not speaking against the good upright people that you find in any country. But they do not want to come to America. We are not getting any farmers from northwestern Europe, the place the greatest tillers of the soil come from. Poland, the government has passed the most restrictive laws against farmers emigrating to the United States. Holland, Switzerland and Germany do not send us any immigrants.

Get Only Undesirables.

"What we get are the unskilled masses, undesirable in their own country and socially inadequate here," Mr. Aswell said.

"So crowded are the slums of Poland that I personally saw 30 human beings crowded into one room. Elsewhere in Warsaw I saw people sleep in the gutters, under bridges and in the most common places. Their hope is to get to the United States. It is faced with this tremendous problem of assimilating these masses. If they are not assimilated, they will alienize this country. They will bring their bitter hatreds and feuds over here and destroy the governmental institutions."

"We have 7,000,000 aliens in the United States who are not citizens. They do not intend to become citizens. The Italians alone send $300,000,000 to their home land during the past twelve months.

"Thirty per cent of the total revenue of the state of New York goes toward the upkeep of insane asylums and institutions of the feeble-minded and of the inmates of these institutions 47 per cent are foreigners.

"The figures for the United States reach the appalling figure that 44 per cent of all inmates in such institutions are foreigners and aliens. A leper colony was established by the government. There are 147 inmates there in that colony and 37 per cent of them are aliens.

Aliens Mentally Unfit.

"Of the 1,700,000 men and boys of foreign birth called by draft for service in the United States during the war, 1,000,000 could not be accepted because they had the mentality of children less than 10 years old.

"The United States may have been an asylum in the past but it must cease to be an asylum for the off-scourings of Europe if it wishes to maintain its identity."

The congressman said that he fully agreed with Secretary of Labor James J. Davis in advocating a plan of selective immigration at the port of embarkation. "It is the most tragic experience for an immigrant to reach Ellis Island and there to be rejected and be forced to go back 3,000 miles across the ocean, penniless and without hope, back to the misery of that distressed continent.

"That's why I want to see the next congress put a bill on the statute books appointing American officers for European ports so that prospective immigrants may be selected and examined there," he said.

"The present restrictions on immigration, based on the census of 1910, which allows an influx of 3 per cent of the number of nationals already in the United States, must be amended and the figure must be based on the census of 1920. That will give us a greater number of northwestern Europeans and will make us miss the immigration figures from southeastern Europe for the past twenty years," Mr. Aswell said.

Must Assign Work.

"Prospective immigrants examined by American officials at European ports, if unskilled laborers, must agree to go on the land. They must also declare their willingness to go wherever they are most needed. They must be registered upon reaching Ellis Island. We must keep track of them. We must know what they are doing. How they are getting along and whether they will be entitled to become full-fledged citizens of the republic.

"We must see to it that the number of 50,000 non-protestants and enemies of all government, whom we have in this country at the present time, does not increase and spread the doctrine of social unrest, of atheism and bolshevism. The only way to prevent the number from growing ever larger is by registration."

Mr. Aswell also advocated an extension of the term of years necessary to obtain citizenship.

"I would have an all-first give some sign of his love for this country, for its ideals and institutions and a clear manifestation that he is in sympathy with the principles and ideals of American life before giving him a right to run the government of this country," he said.

Red Rule For Germany.

Speaking of Germany, the congressman said that he expected a bolshevist revolution in that country followed by a monarchy.

"Germany is starving and on the verge of complete collapse. She must go through the darkness of communism before she will emerge again and become a land with a stable government," he declared.

"France," he said, "is not actuated by motives of military aggression, but by a desire to have Germany pay her just debts. The French soldiers are loyal and the whole nation stands united behind Poincare. Holland and England are faced with great unemployment problems and the chaos of Europe becomes greater and more confusing every day."

BABY'S SPANKING IS CASUS BELLI BETWEEN SISTERS

Alleged spanking of Billy Vincent by his aunt, Mrs. R. A. Farmer, led to a physical encounter between Mrs. Farmer and the boy's mother, Mrs. M. L. Vincent, of 153 Walton street, according to police reports Wednesday, and the question of whether Billy was spanked or not may go to the superior court to be decided.

Both women were arrested after blows had been passed Wednesday morning, according to police, and have posted $25 bond for appearance at recorder's court this afternoon. Charges by Mrs. Vincent against her sister for unwarranted attack on the child are pending in municipal court.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR DEALE TODAY

Funeral services for E. M. Deale, 50, of 179 East Pine street, which were held at his home Wednesday morning following an attack of acute indigestion, will be held from the chapel of Barclay & Brandon at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Deale returned from a trip to Cincinnati only a few hours before he was stricken. Interment will be held in his old home at Rome. He had made Atlanta his home for the last nine years.

Mr. Deale is survived by his widow; three daughters, Mrs. W. M. Massengale, Mrs. Wilbur Revell, and Mrs. Eugene Wiggins, of Augusta; a son, Clifford M. Deale, of Atlanta; and a sister, Mrs. J. W. May, of Rome, Ga.

How to Get Rid of Colds and Catarrh

A Simple, Safe, Inexpensive Method that Clears Out the Head, Nose and Throat.

There are many people suffering from chronic catarrh who would like to know how they can stop catching cold after cold, for they must realize that sooner or later this may lead to deafness and other serious troubles.

Dr. Blosser, for years a specialist in catarrh, is the discoverer of a pleasant, effective method that can be used by women and children as well as men. His remedy is made from medicinal herbs, flowers and berries which you smoke in a dainty pipe or cigarette and inhale the vapor into all the air passages of the head, nose, throat and lungs, carrying medicine where sprays, douches and salves cannot possibly reach. It contains no cubeb, tobacco or habit-forming drugs.

Dr. Blosser's Remedy is effective in all forms of colds, catarrh, asthma, catarrhal headaches and ear troubles that may lead to deafness. You will breathe better and feel better after using it.

You can get from any drug store a convenient pocket size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes and pipe for yourself their pleasant, beneficial effect.—(Adv.)

ASPIRIN Say "Bayer"—Genuine!

GEORGIA BUILDING SHOWS BIG DECLINE

Building contracts in Georgia amounted to $4,161,800 in September, a reduction of 46 per cent over the preceding month, it was reported by the F. W. Dodge corporation, building statisticians. Forty-three per cent or $1,803,500 of the total contracts were for dwelling houses; 22 per cent, or $910,400, for business buildings; and 30 per cent, or $846,500, for public works and utilities.

The September report of construction brings the total for the first nine months of 1923 to $63,133,700. Atlanta's total for the nine months is $39,022,800. September contracts amounted to $2,468,000, a figure less than half that of August.

Woodstock, Ga., October 17.—(Special.)—John Reeves, 65, died yesterday about 1 o'clock at his home five miles east of Woodstock. He will be buried at Kemp graveyard.

In Cobb county, Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. He leaves three daughters, Mrs. Effie Berry, of Roswell, Ga.; Misses Ella and Avis Reeves, of Woodstock; and six sons, Cliff Reeves, of Holly Springs; Huey and Elbert Reeves, of Atlanta; John Reeves, of Penn; Homer and Carl Reeves, of Woodstock.

Why suffer from Rheumatism?

THERE is a certain unexplainable feeling that goes with hale and hearty old age—it is a feeling of happiness, of care unknown, of reborn youth.

But rheumatism—that deadly malady which has caused so many to surrender to the woes of pain and suffering—caused so many to forego the pleasures of life—caused so many to be dependent. Why suffer from it?

To be helped about—crutches, canes and willing hands always needed to assist you here and help you there. Rheumatism will vanish the same as skin disorders—the same as a sallow complexion—the same as that run-down condition when S. S. S. is used.

JUDGE IS DENIED
RIGHT TO SUSPEND
PRISON SENTENCE

According to an opinion submitted to Governor Walker by the attorney general's office, a superior court judge in Georgia has no authority to suspend execution of a sentence imposed by him in a criminal case, except as incidental to a review of the judgment under which the sentence was imposed.

The opinion, which was requested by the governor, was specifically in the case of "Doc" Barker, sentenced to the gang in Harris county for the manufacture of liquor. He was sentenced, under an agreed plea of guilty, to a term of imprisonment for a misdemeanor, punishment, to the gang, with the provision of paying a fine after a portion of his sentence was served, and then having the balance suspended. Three months after sentence was passed, an order was received by the board from the judge, ordering the convict released.

COMMUNITY CHEST ADVOCATES TO MEET

Representatives of the several social and welfare agencies in the city will meet Friday night with officials of the Community Chest campaign to go over certain details in preparation for the one big drive to secure funds for the support of the agencies in 1924.

Announcement will be made at this meeting, it was stated at headquarters Wednesday afternoon, of the names of the agencies which have accepted the chest plan and the amount of their respective budgets. This announcement will reveal for the first time the exact total of the chest plan. Atlanta is asked to contribute to the campaign which begins November 11.

The magnitude of the undertaking is beginning to impress every one who is associated with the movement," stated Eugene R. Black, general chairman, Wednesday.

"Condensing in one week the solicitation work usually scattered through 12 months of the year, and securing in seven days the funds heretofore gathered a little at a time for the support of Atlanta charities, the Community Chest is the most intensive civic undertaking that has confronted Atlanta within my recollection."

"The campaign organization already includes a large number of directors and supporters of Atlanta's organized agencies. The intention of the executive committee is that the work shall include them all in some capacity or other. The executive committee feels that it is charged with the responsibility of directing this great movement, but that every agency affiliated in the chest is directly interested in it, and every man who has contributed to the support of any of these agencies is interested almost as directly."

Mr. Black stated that the meeting Friday night will open what might be considered the second phase of the chest campaign, in which the "thorough cooperation of the powerful social service element in Atlanta workers in various departments of the campaign will study intensively the work ahead of them. The executive committee will assemble Sunday morning for a visit of inspection to several of the agencies enrolled with the chest."

The extent to which the community chest movement can stir the spirit of public welfare was illustrated by Mr. Black, when he told of information reaching him Wednesday to the effect that the late Jacob L. Loose, chairman of the board of directors of the Loose-Wiles Biscuit company, of Kansas City, Mo., had left in his will a fund of $1,000,000 for relieving personal distress and sickness among the needy in that city.

"Such substantial recognition of social service would not have been possible ten years ago," said Roy P. Gates, director of the Community Chest. "The chest has placed social service on a new plane of public confidence and trust. Kansas City is one of the important American communities that have combined all their agencies in one irresistible organization that can demand public attention and respect. The campaigns in Kansas City have been notable throughout the country for their tremendous power and the overwhelming degree of their success. Personally, I have no doubt that this bequest, one of the largest in the history of the country and the largest ever given to the restricted purposes of material relief, was due primarily to the exalted position occupied now by social service in Kansas City."

DUBLIN A. M. E. MEET OPENED BY BISHOP

Dublin, Ga., October 17.—(Special.)—Bishop J. S. Flipper convened the American A. M. E. conference here today. Delegates consisted of old-time Methodist singing, prayer and reading the scriptures by Presiding elders, C. A. Winfield, T. J. Linton, P. A. Greathart, J. I. Stringer, J. A. Lindsay and J. A. Hadley.

Two hundred and eighteen pastors and delegates answered the roll call. Feature of the day was what the bishop said concerning duty of pastors, and what the law requires in raising funds for education and general church expenses. He informed the pastors that migration should not hinder each man from doing his full duty in encouraging and carrying forward the work which means so very much to negro people in the various communities.

"The negro preachers cannot be safe and sound leaders who meddle too much in petty politics in the church of God," he said. "I prefer that you discourage what is called the 'primary' used by delegates of this state relative to the general conference. I cannot see for a life how young preachers and brethren can seek to defeat presiding elders, who are your spiritual overseers, being delegates to general conference and rush some young men who may know something more of books than they know of the real needs of the church and the people."

"I do not dictate to you, but I desire every presiding elder of this state elected delegate to the general conference, May 1924."

"I was born in Atlanta, Ga., more than sixty years ago. I have tried to be of service. I claim to know the needs of our people in the south and no Episcopal district in our church in the world has done more to broaden and to make safe the African Methodist church than the state of Georgia, and I make bold this statement with no fear of successful contradiction. Let us trust God, do our full duty and no permanent harm can come to us or our children."

Rev. M. A. Fountain was elected secretary-in-chief with T. W. Evans and A. R. Cooper, assistants. It is stated that Rev. C. A. Winfield, M. Fountain, P. W. Greathart, D. V. Moman, pastor E. H. Zeigler, T. J. Linton and J. E. Brown will be among the delegates. Treasurer L. H. Smith of the state schools, President John H. Lewis of Morris Brown, Dr. R. V. Branch, M. T. Robinson, W. O. Slade, of Moultrie; Presiding Elder J. E. Hall, of Macon; Rev. John Cooper, J. I. Stringer, and L. A. Townsley are here.

Alexander Faces
New Flog Charge
In Macon Cases

Macon, Ga., October 17.—J. F. Alexander was rearrested late this afternoon on a warrant charging assault and battery and rioting, in connection with Macon's flogging cases. The warrant was obtained by Mrs. W. B. P. ("Fritzi") Bullock and charges that Alexander was in a group of men who flogged her husband, W. B. Bullock, on July 31. Alexander gave bond in the sum of $5,000.

There are other cases pending against Alexander. Bullock is the man who was attacked on the street here a few days ago by a man named Barfield, according to the police. Bullock sustained a severe gash in the neck at the time.

PASTOR GETS CALL FROM FLORIDA CITY

Jeffersonville, Ga., October 17.—(Special.)—Rev. C. J. Broome, pastor of the local Baptist church, has received a call to the pastorate of the Baptist church at Melbourne, Fla. He indicated that he will probably remain at Jeffersonville, as he feels that his work is not completed here. Rev. H. H. Connell, pastor of the Bellevue Baptist church, Macon, preached at the Baptist church here Sunday in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Broome.

Aged Negro Dies.

SUE ON CONTRACTS OF COTTON CO-OP.

The Georgia Cotton Growers' Cooperative association Wednesday filed suit for liquidated damages and petition for permanent injunction against J. H. Stevens, of Ellaville, alleging that Stevens has not complied with the provisions of his contract with the association to deliver his cotton to the cooperative association. A temporary restraining order forbidding Stevens to sell cotton outside of the association was granted Wednesday at Lumpkin by Judge Z. A. Littlejohn, of the southwestern circuit, who is presiding over the sessions of the Stewart county superior court this week. The restraining order was served on Stevens by R. E. Battle, sheriff of Schley county.

NAPIER AND COCO GIVEN OIL HONOR

Chicago, October 17.—A standing executive committee to confer with the United States attorney general concerning "chaotic" conditions in the oil industry was appointed today by the conference of attorneys general from 24 states called in accordance with the will of the National Association of Attorneys General. The committee of eight, includes Attorneys General George Napier, of Georgia, and A. V. Coco, of Louisiana.

Besides calling for "continued and thorough investigation" of the petroleum industry by state authorities and by the department of justice of the United States, the conference adopted resolutions recommending that the states place facts "which may disclose violations of law and the evidence thereof" before the United States department of justice "in the enforcement of decrees heretofore or hereinafter obtained involving compliance with the laws of the United States."

The resolutions, which were adopted without a dissent, according to Chairman O. S. Spilman, also recommended that pipe lines be made common carriers "divorced from the ownership of petroleum and the business of producing, refining or marketing petroleum." They advised further that "such changes be made in freight rates upon petroleum products as will permit producers and refiners in the mid-continent, and other fields depending upon railroad transportation once more to find a market for their products in competition with other sources of supply."

Cooperation not only with the federal authorities but between the attorneys general of the several states was stressed in the recommendations.

Asks Taps Blown Nightly at Grave Of Unknown Hero

Athens, Ga., October 17.—Miss Moira Michael, of the faculty of the State Normal school, who is known as the "Poppy Lady" of America, because it was she who first suggested the flower as a memorial to the heroes of the world war and who wrote the answer to Colonel McRae's poem, "We Shall Not Sleep," has suggested the idea of having a bugler blow taps over the grave of the unknown soldier in Arlington cemetery every afternoon at sunset.

Her suggestion is that the war department either designate a soldier, a veteran of the world war, or that congress appropriate a fund to maintain a bugler for this purpose, still selected from ranks of the world war veterans.

Miss Michael is now at San Francisco with the Georgia delegation for the American legion convention and it is possible that her idea will be acted upon before the next convention meets in 1924.

During the war Miss Michael did Y. M. C. A. work and was preparing to sail for France when the armistice came.

Georgia Association Meets To Outline 1924 Campaign

Two hundred prominent Atlanta business men have been invited to attend a meeting of the Georgia association in assembly room No. 2, Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, to devise ways and means of carrying on the work in Georgia and to outline a definite program.

A committee, composed of Robert F. Maddox, president of the Atlanta National bank; H. Lane Young, vice president of the Citizens' & Southern bank; and Eugene R. Black, president of the Atlanta Trust company, will report at the meeting the results of several weeks' study of the association's plans. Mr. Maddox will preside.

The committee, headed by Mr. Maddox, is expected to offer a plan for carrying on the work of the association.

Plan Indorsed. Secretary Williamson, of the Credit Men's association, has mailed invitations to more than two hundred Atlanta bankers and business men, his association having taken a decided interest in the Georgia association's plan. At a recent meeting of the credit men's association, the Georgia association was unanimously passed.

The late George T. Betts, of Turner county, was the moving spirit in the organization of the Georgia association and largely through his public-spirited devotion and interest in Georgia's "come-back" has the Georgia association been organized.

Plan of Work. The Georgia association, officials state, was organized for the purpose of aiding Georgia to stage a "come-back" after the devastating boll weevil hit the state. In counties where funds have been lacking, members of the association have induced other counties to assist themselves of the aid of federal farm agents, and in counties where agents were already active, the association has cooperated to the extent of sending special representatives to address farmers' meetings and to discuss with bankers in these counties the necessity for diversified farming.

The association is not interested in any land development schemes or sales, being composed of Georgians who appreciate the calamity of the one-crop system, the one-crop tenant system and other ills of the present

Wells Outlines City's Traffic Relief Program

Solution of Atlanta's traffic problems as an important factor in the growth of the city generally, and of the automobile industry particularly, was emphasized in addresses before the Atlanta Automobile association Tuesday evening, when monthly meetings were resumed after a temporary lay-off during the summer. Counselman James L. Wells, who was chairman of the committee which drafted the present city traffic ordinance, and who as now a member of the police commission, contended in his talk that Atlanta's traffic laws were not yet what they should and must be, and forecast changes as soon as necessary projects are consummated. The completion of the Spring street viaduct, paving of Harris street as an east and west thoroughfare, and rehabilitation of the parking on Ponce de Leon, said Mr. Wells, are the next steps in plans of the city administration.

Mr. Wells also declared that non-parking regulations downtown, even more stringent than those now in effect, would have to be inaugurated before the business congestion is relieved as it should be. He said that the enforcement of regulations by the police department had been far from satisfactory.

"But," he said, "we can't expect twelve months of a new administration to make a perfect organization out of a police department that has for years been the football of local politics."

The duty of the automobile dealer toward traffic regulation was stressed by John E. Smith, who declared that all automobile dealers, in the interest of their customers, should firmly oppose any non-parking regulation, but should all favor limited parking.

Mr. Smith contended that the chief need of Atlanta is more crocstown boulevards, which could relieve central congestion. "The part the street cars play in congestion," said Mr. Smith, "is large, and more through avenues should be provided for them. Other changes in the routing of cars would help the situation as well. For instance, the trolley company could route its Marietta cars down Fairlie or Cane street, instead of Forsyth street, and its Decatur cars down Ivy instead of Pryor. This would relieve the present tendency to force all vehicular traffic to Peachtree."

W. R. C. Smith, in an inspirational address on the principles which should be followed by the automotive dealers in the conduct of their business, pointed out the betterment in the business which had been brought about by cooperation and predicted still more progress through a continuation of the same spirit.

Mr. Wells, in his talk, also contended that the non-parking regulations on downtown streets would not hurt the retail merchants nor the automobile dealers. He declared his belief that a six months' trial of the plan would convince them of this fact, and predicted that such a condition must inevitably arrive on downtown Peachtree and Whitehall.

EPWORTH LEAGUE AND VOLUNTEERS HEADS WILL MEET

A dinner will be given at 6:30 o'clock tonight at the Wesley Memorial church for the Epworth League union and Student Volunteer union heads of Atlanta by Mrs. J. M. Glenn, Presidents of the senior and intermediate Epworth Leagues of the city are also invited.

Mrs. Glenn was recently selected to direct the pageant, "The World Cry and Georgia's Response," which is to be presented at the city Auditorium here the evening of November 14 and 15 by leaders in the various Methodist churches of Atlanta, and plans for the tableau in which members of the Epworth League and Student Volunteer unions will take part will be discussed at this dinner.

On Wednesday Mrs. Glenn outlined the pageant details to the missionary institute which is being held at Emory university under the auspices of the general board of missions of the Methodist church. She was in the Orient as a missionary for a number of years and following her appearance before the institute Dr. C. G. Hounshell, who was presiding, warmly commended her work as a missionary and pageant director.

ENGINEERS COMING FOR OPERA WEEK

Announcement that the 1924 convention of the American Society of Civil Engineers will be held in Atlanta during grand opera week was made Wednesday by the Atlanta convention bureau.

News that Atlanta had been selected was received in a telegram from J. H. Dunlap, secretary, following a meeting of the executive board in Richmond Wednesday morning.

The convention usually draws together about 300 of the country's leading civil engineers.

Officers of the local branch of the society are: S. D. Slack, president; B. M. Hall, vice president; William A. Hansell, Jr., vice president, and Frederick H. McDonald, secretary and treasurer.

Mr. Dunlap, secretary of the national society, will be in Atlanta next Monday and will be the guest of the local branch at a luncheon.

Among local engineers who are attending the fall meeting now being held in Richmond are James H. Johnston, P. H. Norcross, J. A. Higgs, Jr., and P. H. McDonald.

ENGINEERS PROTEST DISMISSAL OF DAVIS

Richmond, Va., October 17.—Approval of a letter to Secretary of the Interior Work, protesting against the dismissal last summer of A. P. Davis as director of the reclamation service, was voted at the opening session here today of the fall meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers. The letter prepared by the board of directors at its meeting yesterday declared that the action of the secretary would undermine the whole reclamation service.

David W. Davis, former governor of Idaho, was placed in charge of the reclamation service by the secretary when he removed Mr. Davis and on June 27 the board of directors of the society wrote a letter of inquiry to the secretary to which he replied on August 14. Today's action was in reply to the secretary's letter.

The engineers in their letter declared that the dismissal was unjust to Mr. Davis and that there is danger that the secretary's action may be laid to waste of public money for political purposes. They also declare that engineering as well as business ability is required of one at the head of the reclamation service.

The bonds were as safe as ever, but—

"Some of my bonds declined so much in price," writes an investor, "that I was afraid to hold them any longer, and I sold at a loss. I am told, however, that they are still perfectly safe."

Safety, for the average investor, means more than getting interest and principal when due. It means such stability of value that there will never be any temptation to sell for less than cost—never a drop in price which might make the investor ask, "Is this bond really secure? Hadn't I better get rid of it right now?"

If you are looking for the kind of safety that is expressed in unfluctuating value, investigate Miller First Mortgage Bonds. No owner of these bonds ever had to sell at a loss. And they pay up to 7% interest (the rate prevailing for high-grade Southern bonds of this type). Mail the coupon, while you think of it, for descriptive booklet, "Creating Good Investments."

GROWERS FORM PEACH EXCHANGE

Dissolution of the Georgia Fruit exchange and formation of the Georgia Peach Growers' Association was announced Wednesday when liquidation proceedings were instituted by stockholders of the fruit exchange at a meeting at the Piedmont hotel. W. B. Baker, of Atlanta; E. O. Wheeler and W. B. Hunter, both of Cornelia, were named trustees for winding up the business of the fruit concern. J. C. Carlisle, of Macon, stated Wednesday night.

"The new exchange will be composed exclusively of peach growers," said Mr. Carlisle. "This will be a distinct advantage to the organization, because every stockholder in the corporation will have a vital interest other than the purely pecuniary interest which every stockholder of any corporation has."

members of the old institution, but we just wanted to have a real cooperative organization for peach growers. The liquidation of the stock of the fruit exchange is merely a process of law in order that stockholders can have what is coming to them from their investments.

"Application for a charter for the Peach Growers' exchange has already been made, and the new organization will begin to function just as soon as it is expedient. The first meeting will probably be held early in November."

"Plans for the new organization include 27 local associations, and the board of directors of the exchange will be composed of an elected delegate from each of the local organizations. No plans for organization have been completed or definitely settled, though it is generally understood that J. C. Carlisle, who was assistant office manager in the old organization, will be promoted to office manager in the new."

STONE MOUNTAIN DRIVE RAISES $40,000 FOR CITY

part of this week," said Mr. Atkins, "and he will make a subscription of $10,000. We are going to do our full part in seeing that this great work is carried to completion."

Unique in All World.

"In the last 18 months I have traveled 100,000 miles covering North and South America. In the past 15 years I have traveled 700,000 miles covering the face of the earth. I make the deliberate assertion that there is nothing else in any country that compares with this memorial. It is going to bring more people to this city and state than anything else put together. Last Sunday afternoon I counted at Stone Mountain the automobile license number plates of 22 different states. That is an illustration of how the work is drawing now, in its initial stage."

Robert F. Maddox's subscription of $1,000 was made as a "Founders' roll" subscription in memory of his father, whose name will be inscribed upon a bronze tablet to be placed in the Georgia state capitol building. The memorial hall which will be quarried out of the mountain immediately under the central group of the panorama, Colonel Maddox commanded the forty-second Georgia regiment and fought gallantly throughout the war. He was one of the party of Confederate soldiers who took the engine "Texas" who were attempting to burn the Western & Atlantic railroad.

His subscription is the third "Founders' roll" subscription to be made since the Atlanta campaign started Tuesday morning. Chairman Adams added to his above statement a special appeal for Atlantans who contemplate "Founders' roll" subscriptions to make them now, so as to complete Atlanta's quota at the earliest possible moment.

Trammell Asks Rebates on Gas For Christmas

Outlining its proposed plan for making rebates on gas to all consumers in Atlanta and vicinity, in accordance with the order of the Georgia public service commission, the Georgia Railway and Power company on Wednesday submitted its detailed plan to the commission, through its chairman, Paul B. Trammell.

The company's plan, which contemplates putting the reduced rate into effect on November 1, with rebates for the majority of gas users will be offered for sale Saturday afternoon.

The community exhibit competition is scheduled to be unusually warm, and C. V. Shilley, county farm agent and chief of entries, declares that the agricultural exhibits will far surpass those of previous fairs.

Chairman Trammell suggested that it would be undoubtedly acceptable to the majority of gas users if they could receive their rebate checks before Christmas.

Useful for Presents.

"Whatever the size of the check, I know it would be useful to the average man when he goes to purchase his Christmas presents," said Mr. Trammell.

It is possible that this suggestion will be made to the company.

The company's letter, outlining its plans for putting the new rates into effect and for payment of rebates, in part, follows:

"The spirit of the Georgia Railway and Power company and Atlanta Gas Light company to the United States supreme court from the decision of the special tribunal of the United States district court in the gas rate case having been decided against the company, thereby discontinuing the injunction which has been in effect enjoining the rate prescribed by the commission in its order of December 20, 1921, your file No. 15248, in the following manner:

Change Prepay Meters.

"It is necessary to put new gears in all the prepay meters to adjust them to the rates prescribed by the order of December 20, 1921. The work of changing the gears of these prepay meters started on October 15, 1923, and it will be pushed forward until all of the prepay meters have been changed to conform to the new rates. It is estimated that it will take approximately two months' time to make these changes in all the prepay meters."

Regular Meters.

"We will apply the new rate to all consumption of gas for the meter reading periods commencing with the reading of the meters on and after November 1, 1923.

PRESBYTERIANS MAY ESTABLISH SEMINARY

and with new buildings and new equipment develop a greater seminary for preacher-training. The recommendation of the committee was to grant the board leave to survey the territory and relocate the institution, as a last resort, combine with Richmond.

The substitute gave authority to relocate only within the bounds of the surrounding synod; the removal to an outside point to be referred next year again to this synod for consent. The matter was the more acute because this week the two other synods concerned are meeting and considering the same request from the Columbia board. Under the action taken, it is said if there is a suitable opening for removal of the seminary which served the three states and would serve also at least parts of half a dozen others for the education of young men for the ministry, in Georgia may accept proper offers from Atlanta or other places in Georgia, or Carolina, or Florida, and thus retain a great denominational institution in the southeast.

Installation Praised.

Synod went on record in the most cordial expressions of appreciation of and confidence in the work of the Columbia faculty and board and pledged its quota of financial support for clearing the current deficit.

Committees Named.

Standing committees for synod for the year were announced as follows: Bills and Overtures—J. W. Caldwell, John Goff, J. K. Coit, J. J. McKay, J. M. Heath.

Judicial Business—J. C. Patton, C. Campbell, T. M. Stripling, C. L. Nicholassen, W. M. Rowland.

Theological Seminaries—S. L. Morla, J. R. Sevier, E. R. Leyburn, Frank Eagan, G. S. Wood.

Finance—S. L. McCarty, W. E. Dawson, B. L. Wylly.

Excuse and Leave Absence—L. C. Henderson, F. C. Hartman, J. F. L'Hommiedieu.

Presbyterian Records—Athens, William Huck, A. A. Moffitt, R. L. Simpson; Atlanta, J. H. Patton, J. H. Groves, Wheeler Tolber; Augusta, J. E. Hemphill, W. D. Hooper, A. C. Miller; Cherokee, James Thomas, A. E. Dobbins, J. M. Miller; Macon, A. L. Johnson, J. M. Stafford, M. F. Rauschenberg; Savannah, F. C. Symonds, D. P. McGeehy, Homer McMillan; Southwest, E. L. Burbour, Malcolm Lockhart, R. O. Flinn.

Unique Gift.

A feature of the morning session was the presentation of a gavel made from the wood of the Geneva cathedral where John Calvin taught. Reports dealing with the progress of the church, which have been included in advance reports in this correspondence, were heard by the Presbyterian historical society for Georgia was authorized with the clerks of synod and of the presbytery, members of the organization. A building fund plan was adopted for the help of erection of more churches in the state. The election of Rev Robert K. Henderson, an evangelist was confirmed. An evangelistic program was adopted for special meetings in each church and for each church to conduct at least one special meeting in its territory when the way is clear. That each presbytery be urged to obtain a superintendent of home missions and evangelism. That the five-year goal of 40,000 members be attempted. That Rev. J. B. Ficklin, of Decatur, be re-elected executive of the Georgia synod. That the synod accept the apportionment of $36,000 in its budget for the progressive work.

Athlantic Speaks.

The evening session heard the report on the committee on education and an address along educational lines by Dr. J. S. Lyons, of Atlanta. The place of the next meeting will be determined Thursday at the closing session.

VALDOSTA SEEKS NEXT MEETING.

Valdosta, Ga., October 17.—(Special.)—Valdosta will make a strong bid for the 1924 meeting of the Presbyterian synod of Georgia. The synod opened its meeting in Savannah Tuesday. Dr. L. R. Scott, of this city, left yesterday morning to attend the meeting. Dr. Scott carried with him invitations from all the civic bodies and will urge Valdosta for the meeting.

FAYETTE COUNTY FAIR TO OPEN GATES TODAY

Fayetteville, Ga., October 17.—(Special.)—With the stage set for the greatest agricultural, mechanical and animal husbandry exhibits in the history of this county, the annual Fayette county fair will throw open its gates today and will continue until Saturday night.

The thirty exhibit is slated to be the biggest feature of the exposition, over 400 pullets raised by members of the county poultry club being entered. The county fair will be offered for sale Saturday afternoon.

ATLANTA WILL HAVE AN OLD COLONY CLUB

Branch headquarters of the "Old Colony Club" will be established in Atlanta within the next few weeks and southeastern district headquarters will be established here later in the month, it was announced Wednesday by G. S. P. Holland, executive secretary for the southeast, who is here preparing for the opening.

All rooms on the second floor of the hotel fronting Peachtree street will be furnished elaborately, Mr. Holland said, and will be thrown open as soon as a selected charter membership of 150 is obtained.

The Old Colony club does not compete with any other kind of club in Atlanta, Mr. Holland said. It is intended to serve as a home, office and club for its members.

The Atlanta organization will be one of 43 in the United States formed since 1916, according to the secretary. All members of each local are members of all locals with equal privileges. Business and information are the club's special features.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND NEVER SUSPECT IT

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is the cause. The American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—(adv.)

SISTER JEALOUS, FEARS FOR LIFE, WOMAN DECLARES

Facing charges of having threatened to kill her sister, Mrs. V. V. Moore, of 283 East Fair street, was brought into municipal court Wednesday on a peace warrant sworn out by her sister, Mrs. Edna Skinner, of 20 Emmett street.

Mrs. Skinner declared that her sister had threatened her life and that she had been informed that Mrs. Moore was "hunting for her with a pistol."

Mrs. Skinner stated that she was at a loss to explain her sister's actions, but intimated that Mrs. Moore was under the impression that her husband had been paying attentions to Mrs. Skinner.

WOMAN IN BATTLE OVER BOARD ACCOUNT

Fisticuffs over possession of wearing apparel of Miss Iva Puckett brought her and her landlady, Mrs. Arthur Mosely, of 331 West Peachtree, before recorder Johnson Wednesday and led to his binding over Mrs. Mosely on charges of assault and battery. Mrs. Mosely, it was stated, tried to keep Miss Puckett's personal effects for a week's board bill and blows resulted.

ship for the neighbor's wife. Alton asserts that this woman disappeared and soon afterward his brother Love also went away.

Alton came to Florida and, he says, Mrs. Rogers met him in Bradenton, Fla., after she had secured a divorce from her husband. He had obtained work in a crate mill there and says he returned to Georgia soon after that time and came to Avon Park only last week.

Two children of Love Rogers and a brother survive him in Georgia.

ROGERS AND WOMAN ARE INDICTED.

Douglas, Ga., October 17.—Indictments, charging murder, were returned here this morning by the grand jury, now in session, against L. S. Rogers, charged with slaying his brother, John Alton Rogers, and Mrs. John Alton Rogers, widow of the "lead man" who left with the alleged slayer, both of whom are now being held in Avon Park, Fla., where they were arrested yesterday.

Sheriff Fanner, of Coffee county, has notified local authorities that he will return with his two prisoners tomorrow morning. This was an indication, according to the local authorities, that the man and woman had waived extradition rights.

It was reported here this morning that it was another one of Rogers' brothers that told the story of the killing, which brought about the arrest of L. S. Rogers and his sister-in-law in Florida. This brother, it is understood, appeared before the local grand jury and charged his brother with the murder.

The crime charged against the man being held today in Florida explains the mysterious disappearance of John Rogers from this vicinity during November, 1922. The crime is alleged to have occurred on November 15.

According to the story which, it is said, L. S. Rogers confided in his brother, and in several close friends living in this county and in Florida, on that day he slew his brother while they were both working in a corn field. L. S. Rogers is charged with shooting his brother, stripping him of all clothing and, after wrapping the remains in a quilt, buried his brother in the corn field.

When spring came, the brother, still living on the farm, ploughed the field, and even over the exact spot where his brother was buried, according to the story related before the grand jury here.

About a month ago the alleged slayer, with the widow, left Georgia and went to Florida, where they were arrested yesterday.

The skeleton has been dug up and is now being held in a local undertaking establishment. It was identified as the remains of John Rogers or several gold teeth.

Twenty Million sound reasons for buying them

Eversharp and Wahl Pen have found their way into the hands of over twenty million people. Many now carry two Eversharp—one with the new colored lead.

Eversharp's perfect balance makes it the most comfortable pencil to hold. You never find a wobbly lead in Eversharp—the exclusive rifled tip grips it tightly. The automatic index tells always the length of lead in the barrel. An eraser and magazine of extra leads are under the cap. Eversharp's exclusive features can't be copied.

The all-metal Wahl Pen is a wonderful fountain pen improvement. It cannot crack or split. It holds more ink. It will last a lifetime.

Buy both, matched in gold or silver. Eversharp, $1 to $10; Wahl Pen, $4 to $10. Solid gold at higher prices. Look for the name on each.

Wahl all-rubber pens are great—simply great! $2.50 up.

Painful Rheumatic Swellings Disappear

Discoverer Tells Druggist Not To Take a Cent of Anyone's Money Unless Allenshu Completely Banishes All Rheumatic Pains and Twinges.

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called ALLENRU, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense ALLENRU with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment. All druggists can supply you.—(adv.)

COUNSEL IN CLASH IN STOKES TRIAL

New York, October 17.—Another witness in the divorce suit of W. E. D. Stokes, against his wife, Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, today repudiated a statement alleged to have been made to attorneys for Mrs. Stokes.

Anna Frances, employed in the apartment of Edgar Wallace, today denied she had made a statement October 20, 1931, she said, however, she recognized her signature on the statement.

Previously she maintained she made but one statement under oath and that in the summer of 1930. She declared she remembered the date because her husband was ill at the time. On several other occasions, she said, she had been shown affidavits but had not signed them. She admitted having seen Mrs. Stokes six times but said she had received no money from him or any one else connected with the case.

Mrs. Frances said she was sure she had seen Mrs. Stokes six times at the Wallace apartment. Mrs. Stokes, she asserted, was veiled but would lift her veil and say "hello Edgar," when Wallace came to the door to greet her. Shown a number of photographs the witness picked out one which she said was a copy of one that had been on Wallace's chiffonier.

SINN FEIN MEET ASKS EMPTY JAIL

Dublin, October 17.—(The Associated Press.)—The proceedings of the second day of the convention of the Sinn Fein, or Sinn Fein organization, covered the whole of the republican program in detail and throughout the session the voters were unanimous, no divisions having been called for.

Uppermost in interest in the minds of the delegates proved to be the hunger strike of prisoners in Mount Joy. It was urged that the strike was the gravest because it was undertaken by men, many of whom were taken in prison for 12 months and whose vitality is alleged to have been lowered through punishments in the prison. These punishments, it was declared, included throwing water on the men with hose and subsequently exposing them to the night air. Apprehension was expressed that there would be numerous deaths among the prisoners.

FEAR BLOODY CLASH IN SAN LUIS POTOSI

Mexico City, October 17.—Bloody developments are feared in the state of San Luis Potosi in view of an uprising by the Cedillo brothers, who are said to be marching on the state capital to support Aurelio Manrique for the governorship.

Jorge Pereto Laurens, president of the federal congress and head of the Cedillo family, has been telegraphed Secretary of War Serrano confirming news of the uprising by the two men whose activities in past years have caused trouble for several governments. The brothers, according to Laurens' message, are depositing the municipal authorities of several towns and are destroying telephone and telegraph lines as they march against San Luis Potosi.

The federal government has instructed General Luis Gutierrez, commander of the federal forces, not to interfere with the peaceful entry of the Cedillos into the city. However, Prieto Laurens is said to be in readiness to oppose seizure of the government palace by the brothers.

The federal government has not yet recognized the claims of either Laurens or Manrique for the governorship, deciding not to mix in the controversy. It considers the Cedillo uprising as purely a local question.

Dr. Ridley will appear before Recorder George E. Johnson Thursday for trial.

Dr. Ridley, who now resides at 50 West Twelfth street, has been the storm-center in local Baptist church affairs for some months. Recently the local Baptist ministers' union voted to withdraw fellowship from the Central Baptist church on the grounds that Dr. Ridley's conduct was unbecoming a minister.

Following this action by the local ministers' union, members of the Central Baptist church held a meeting at which they gave Dr. Ridley a vote of confidence and requested that he not resign. Shortly after this Dr. Ridley tendered his resignation, giving as his reason that he did not wish to impede the growth and development of the Central church.

NAMED DEFENDANTS

San Pedro, October 17.—Two officers of the submarine S-37, aboard which an explosion occurred last week resulting in the death of three men, were named yesterday by the naval court of inquiry.

Lieutenant Harlan E. Brown, chief engineer and electrical officer of the submarine, and Chief Petty Officer Mate E. F. Ray were named "interested parties in the status of defendants" after testimony had brought out the fact that they had been in the submarine in charge of an inexperienced man.

This man, one of the victims of the explosion, was asserted to have permitted an excess flow into the battery chamber of oxygen which combined with hydrogen from the batteries to make an explosive mixture.

Testimony on behalf of the defendants will be heard when the court reconvenes today, it was announced.

Nothing New in Plan.

The documents contain nothing additional to the proposals already published in the Belgian gray book. They involve the organization of monopolies for the sale of certain products of Germany in the proceeds of which would supervene the exploitation and control of the German finances until they were reorganized.

While the commission was engaged in the present economic situation, charge d'affaires Herr von Hoesch called on Premier Poincare, but the visit, which had been announced in the press, and which had aroused great curiosity, failed to produce the promised results.

It is learned on good authority that the commission made to M. Poincare was of a purely negative character and that no progress whatever was made toward a settlement of the crisis, there was no possibility of the difficulties of reviving industrial activity in the Ruhr.

ONLY POLICY MOVE.

Herr von Hoesch told the premier that in the present economic situation of Germany it would be impossible to collect the coal tax in the Ruhr and that, in view of the financial crisis, there was no possibility of financing reparations deliveries in kind.

These declarations are taken in French official circles as merely confirming the impression already formed, which was that the Germans, in declining officially to declare an intention to pay reparations, were simply submitting to imperative circumstances and that they cancelled the obligations hostile to the occupation in other ways, said one high official of the foreign office tonight.

The steps taken by their diplomatic representatives in Paris and Brussels have advanced the problem not one whit.

BELGIAN PLAN

Paris, October 17.—The Belgian reparations plan was presented to the council of the league today by M. Delacroix, the Belgian member. The commission will meet again next week to consider it.

Today there was no sign of disorder in any of the districts where yesterday's disturbances occurred.

Making Young Farmers

One of the most vital features of the state's progress is the development of scientific farming by the education of farmers' sons on practical lines by the Farm Extension Work, the State College of Agriculture and the Training School for Farmers' Sons at the Southeastern Fair.

The exhibits at the Fair have been an inspiration to these boys. At first the exhibits of fine cattle were nearly all from a distance, but the proportion of home-bred animals has steadily increased and the cattle and swine from Georgia and the adjoining states constitute a large part of this section of the Fair.

In the meantime the White Provision Company reports that it is able to secure a larger and larger proportion of its supply of hogs and beef cattle from this section. This is conclusive evidence that the Fair is accomplishing one of its main objects, which was the development of animal industry and agriculture.

The stress of the times has affected the farm club work but it is coming back, and it is to be hoped that hereafter the legislature will make sure of every dollar of the liberal appropriations by the Federal Government for this purpose by matching them with home funds.

In this transition period, which is revolutionizing farming, it is of the utmost importance that everything possible be done to educate and train the farmers' sons for the great work which is before them.

Bankruptcy Action.

Macon, Ga., October 17.—(Special.)—Seaborn G. Jones and John R. C. Jones, of the Jones & Jones Mule company, of Milan, Ga., today filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy with the clerk of the local United States district court. They scheduled liabilities of $7,425.19 and assets of $2,353.16.

Business Opportunity

You probably know that the automobile tire business is a permanent, progressive and rapidly increasing business, offering brilliant opportunities to real merchants. High-grade tire manufacturer desires connection in Atlanta and offers:

FIRST—A reputation for making tires of the highest quality and uniformity.

SECOND—A manufacturing organization composed not only of high-grade technical men and strongly financed, but directed by experienced tire men with successful records and the highest reputation for fair dealing.

THIRD—An exclusive selling policy with unique advantages under a permanent contract.

FOURTH—A very low merchandise cost, quality considered, which is the result of a distinctive organization plan and selling methods which reduce the excessive overhead charges usually found in tire prices.

We ask in return:

FIRST—An aggressive organization (or man) with reasonable resources.

Princeton Faces Tough Opponent in Notre Dame

South Bend Team Has Varied Attack; May Be Dangerous At All Times—Walter Camp

Work on Defense Is Phenomenal—Interest Is Intense Over Coming Army-Yale Game on November Third.

BY WALTER CAMP.

New York, October 17.—Princeton wants to watch her step Saturday when she meets Knute Rockne's pupils from Notre Dame.

The writer believes the South Bend aggregation had a little of the steam taken out of it last Saturday in the victorious clash with Army. But Notre Dame still is a whitening and any team is in grave danger once she gets within its 25-yard line. Only the greatest alertness in line and secondary defense can prevent a touchdown if they get that far.

Notre Dame has a variety of plays, depending largely upon backfield shifts, any one of which may evolve in an attack at any point in the line, or in a forward pass. Here is a brilliant football eleven, light but a team which makes few mistakes, and goes at top speed all the time.

And the nearer they get to the opponent's goal the more dangerous these Indiana players become. They reserve plays to be uncorked inside the 25-yard line which have not been uncorked earlier and which are almost sure to catch the defense napping. It took two of these plays to score the second touchdown from Army's 20-yard line, and the second went through a hole big enough to accommodate a touring car.

On the defense, Notre Dame's play is little less phenomenal. On one occasion Saturday when West Point went into a kick formation, two Notre Dame players instantly noted that Wood was not back, and called out "it's not a kick, it's a run." This and many other instances go to show that they have their wits about them every minute.

ARMY-YALE GAME.

Interest is at its height for the Yale-Army game on November 3, because of the 7-7 tie these rivals played last season, and Yale bowl will be packed for the contest. All the seats have been disposed of and there will be no public sale.

The Yale team has already been analyzed and shown to be stronger than it was last year. Army showed itself improved, too, in its closing struggle with Notre Dame.

Garbisch is the star of Army's line and one of the best linemen on the gridiron. Mulligan and Goodman are a sterling pair of tackles and Storck a fast, resourceful, quick-thinking end. In Smith, Army has a heavy quarterback, who is particularly slippery in running back punts. Wood is a punter of great ability, who kicks a particularly convenient ball for the ends to get down under and yet has plenty of distance.

West Point's attack is not as deceptive as Notre Dame's, and the forward passes are used in that game were not very well marked. The line proved a little heavy for quick activity last Saturday and that was what beat her.

A most interesting scrap is promised at the Yale Stadium Saturday when Syracuse meets Pittsburgh. Syracuse has some old scorers to settle and Meahan has a powerful team this year. But he will have to look for Warner's forward passes and keep Bohren, Pitts' clever pass receiver, well covered.

SUSPENSION IS REDUCED

Trenton, N. J., October 17.—The one-year suspension imposed on Mickey Walker, of Elizabeth, for stalling in a bout with Jimmy Jones, of Youngstown, a week ago, was reduced to six months today by State Boxing Commissioner Bugbee, of New Jersey. Addressing his decision to Walker, Bugbee said: "I take into account the extenuating circumstances surrounding your injured hands."

The commissioner refused, however, to commute the one-year suspension from the New Jersey ring imposed upon Jack Bulger, Walker's manager.

U. S. WILL SURVEY FARM POWER USE

Washington, October 17.—Cooperation of the interior running in the department in the promotion of experiments looking toward increased use of electricity on farms, was promised today by Secretary Work and Hoover.

Speaking at a luncheon of the federation of the interior on the relation of electricity to agriculture, Mr. Hoover declared proposed super-power systems would be of great benefit to the farmer. He said the department is taking a survey of the use of electricity on American farms. He gave assurance he would use the machinery of the commerce department to take a survey of the use of electricity on American farms. He said the department is taking a survey of the use of electricity on American farms. He said the department is taking a survey of the use of electricity on American farms.

Extensive use of electricity on farms is bound to come in the next few years," Mr. Hoover asserted. "The farmers do not propose to be left behind in the use of electricity. Staid Old Boston Craves Chance To See Young Stribling Fight

SETS EDUCATORS THINKING

Boston, Mass., October 17.—(Special.)—Young Stribling, the Georgia high school lad who, blacked the two eyes of Mike McGuire and almost jolted the light heavyweight crown from his head at Columbus the other night, has become exceedingly popular in the north, especially here in New England.

Ever since the wrath of the crowd in Columbus was heralded through this section in front page headlines, the Georgia idol has been an object of unprecedented interest in New England boxing circles and fan-dom.

Column upon column of copy featuring his tour on the vaudeville stage when a baby, his activities at Lanier high at Mecon and his hundred bouts has been imported from Georgia, for the consumption of local readers.

Sporting editors and fans, disgusted with the present card presented, are clamoring for action. An earnest effort is being made to secure a match for Boston either before or after the Georgia youth comes to Madison Square Garden this winter for a return engagement with McGuire as now being made.

Young Stribling is considered unique in annals of fistiana here in New England. A senior in the high school, the captain of his basketball team which holds the prep and high school championship of the south, a sergeant in the student cadet corps—he has had equal in this section.

Unconsciously Young Stribling has had much to do with the recent addition of boxing to the high school athletics. In the past, boxing was considered a disgraceful sport in schools in this state until recently considerably looked down upon. Those who suggested it for high school athletics to the past were scorned. Recently the matter was before the state board of education, its supporters setting forth no opportunity of judging of comparative strength. That the poets have a very formidable aggregation cannot be denied if the fact that they have conquered such teams as Griffin High, Gordon Institute, Barnstable A. & M. would indicate anything. The personnel of the American eleven was as follows: Purvis, High, Gordon, Bell, guards; Merritt, Hines, tackles; Tye, Dixon, ends; Allen, quarterback; Dudley, Barton, half; Hooks, captain, full-back.

Just who will constitute the reserve strength is still in doubt. Of the Shore named Glasgow, Bell, Merritt, Dixon, Barton and Captain Hooks are letter men from last year's squad. Purvis is showing up well at center. Hines, husky freshman of some 175 pounds, is taking care of his position at tackle in fine shape. He also has a toe that may prove a big asset to the team before the season ends. Tye, a scrub end of last year, is holding down his flank in admirable fashion. Allen at quarter, has proved himself the greatest of the bunch. Buchanan, who was graduated last year, Dudley at half, is an excellent broken-field runner. Taken as a whole, it is a well-balanced machine, and American fans are confident it will hold its own with title contenders in this section of the state.

The remainder of the season is as follows: Lanier in American, October 26; Griffin in American, October 26; Griffin in American, November 16; Albany in American, November 23; Blakely in American, November 29.

Coach Saunders' warriors have been working hard for the past two weeks for their coming clash with the Poets. When the referee's whistle blows fans of this section will see the strongest, best conditioned team ever representing the institution in action.

Coach Saunders stated today that he was satisfied with the manner in which his proteges were showing up in practice. He stated that while a major portion of the past two weeks' practice has been devoted to perfection of new plays, there has been a marked improvement in every department of the game. The American gridlers have emerged victorious twice this season in as many starts. The victim in each case was the team of Lanier. The locals won the first 19 to 6, and the second 20 to 6.

No Dope Available. The games played by American and Lanier this season have given Both men had families. They had long been residents in the county. Both were serving first terms in prison.

Moros slay thirteen in attack on school.

Manila, October 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—Another sanguinary outbreak of Moro in the island of Mindanao, was reported here today, and the aid of United States troops was asked by the provincial authorities. The advice said the Moros, charging on a schoolhouse at Lake Buluan last Sunday, killed the principal and a teacher, and a sergeant and eight privates.

Recent months the military authorities have been called on to suppress several outbreaks. Fifty-eight Moros were killed in various battles since last May, but until the present incident casualties among the constabulary had been nominal. The hatred of the Moros has been directed at the constabulary, composed of Filipinos rather than at the American administration and has been inspired by religious fanaticism.

SON SLAYS FATHER

No Motive Seen in Kentucky Patricide Case.

Owensboro, Ky., October 17.—John Weber, 54, farmer of Davies county, was shot and killed by his son Samuel, 24, here today, seemingly without provocation.

Six bullets, the full contents of the revolver, took effect as the father lay on the ground. Following the shooting, the son turned and walked away and has not been apprehended. Witnesses of the shooting were unable to account for the son's act, declaring he fired on his father without warning.

DAHLONEGA TO PLAY FRESH

Dahlonega, Ga., October 17.—Returning from Parris Island with a badly battered team, Coach Bennett has begun concentrating his attention on his team, preparatory for the Tech Freshman game in Atlanta next Saturday.

Warren, star end, is out for the rest of the season with a badly injured knee. It is reported that water has developed on the injured member. Shirley and Young, also ends, are out with injuries. Shirley sustaining a bad shoulder in the last game, and Young is suffering with injuries to his head. The other members of the squad are nursing minor injuries that are of more or less trouble to them.

With these three men on the injured list, Bennett will have considerable trouble in molding his team into shape for Saturday's game. Parham, regular end, is ready for action, but another end will have to be found. It is far from easy to find an end that can readily step into the shoes of Warren or Shirley.

Concerning "Pats" Activity. "Pat" Stribling launched his young son's knapsack in 1919. He obtained him places in preliminaries of fights all over the south. The boy was then a bantam-weight. He laid his hard center in his right shoulder against the chin of the south's best and jumped shortly to the lightweight class and to semi-final bouts.

On July 2, two years ago, he won from Jake Abel, the recognized lightweight champion of the south, and then began to take on stiffer fights. He has been in more than 100 fights and has never been knocked out. He is a very happy, cheerful, flower ear, only the smile of an unsophisticated boy.

The interest in this young hero about the country is growing. He is popular, as popular perhaps as any of our local talent, more than many of them—a shining example of young America.

His ambition is to become a champion, and he is working hard to achieve it. He is a very happy, cheerful, flower ear, only the smile of an unsophisticated boy.

World Champs and Victims Plan to Pug Weak Places; Carl Mays May Be Traded

Bob Meusel, Whose Hit Gave Yankees Great Triumph, Broke Record For Driving in Series Runs.

New York, October 17.—By the Associated Press.—Not only will the New York Giants, fallen world's champions, go through a rebuilding process before they are ready to scale title heights again but the Yankees, their successors to baseball's crown, also may bolster a few weak links in their victorious machine before the 1924 season gets under way.

It developed today that Everett Scott, veteran shortstop of the Yankees who holds the all-time record for consecutive games played, is considering voluntary retirement although Huggins, manager of the new champions has no desire himself to part with the game's greatest "iron man."

Scott, however, has an attractive business enterprise in view, which, if accepted, would mean his passing after having played the remarkable record of participating in 1,138 consecutive games, a record he started in 1916 with the Boston Red Sox and which nearly doubled the best previous record.

"This may be my last world's series," Scott admitted, just before one of the games with the Giants. "I don't want to be at my last so that if I don't come back in the spring I can remember with pride my last season. I've been around a long time and I'm not getting any faster."

Scott had to go so far as the series was concerned for the "Deacon" after a rather disappointing season, came back to play the greatest championship ball of his career, hitting over 300 and missing but one chance in the field.

May Use Boley. Scott may find the call of the game too strong to resist when spring comes around but in the event he drops out his shoes may be filled by Joe Boley, "100,000 beauty" of the Baltimore Orioles who has been eagerly sought by a number of major league clubs for several seasons. The purchase of Boley has never been officially announced by the Yankees or Jack Dunn, manager of the Baltimore International league champions, but it is understood the world's champions have first claim on him.

If Boley is not available, however, Ernie Johnson and Mike MacNally, Yankee utility men, may battle for the shortstop berth.

Huggins also is understood to be anxious to obtain a right-hand hitting outfielder, either to alternate with or replace Whitey Witt in centerfield. This need was shown in the last game of the series when Mike MacNally, hard-hitting pitcher, was substituted for Witt in the eighth inning rally. Huggins has Elmer Smith available but he is a left-handed batter. Smith might be used in a trade to his own club and the club's advantage for Elmer is considered too valuable to remain on the bench.

Carl Mays, veteran pitcher, who has passed the crest of his effectiveness, also may be involved in a deal. Another record, made by Bob Meusel, whose $50,000 hit broke up the deciding game, Meusel drove in eight runs during the series, shattering the mark of seven established by Tommy Leach with Pittsburgh in the series of 1908 and equaled by Danny Murphy and Frank Baker, of the old Athletics; Eddie Roush, of Cincinnati, and Irish Meusel, brother of Bob, in the 1921 Giant-Yankee series.

Mrs. Dodge Will Found St. Simon's Boys' School

Plans for the "St. Simon's Vocational School for Boys," and for a Catholic day school, are being completed, it was announced Wednesday by Mrs. Anna D. Dodge, Atlanta business man, and wife of the Dodge Children's home, and the donor of 2,600 acres of land to be used as farm lands and campus grounds for the school.

The first building to be constructed will be the large and spacious school of the school, given by John A. Metcalf, Atlanta business man, and philanthropist. Cornerstone laying exercises for the new building will be held in the near future with appropriate exercises. Mr. Metcalf stated Wednesday night.

All buildings will be of old Spanish design, and will be absolutely fire proof. The Dodge Memorial hall will be another of the largest and most elaborately finished buildings and construction on it is being expedited to begin in the near future.

Has Conducted Orphanage. Mrs. Dodge has for a number of years conducted a private orphanage. She is aging, and has decided to give up the entire school property, and the most valuable land on St. Simon's island to the construction of a great school.

She will name a board of directors in the near future. This board will consist of 20 of Georgia's most prominent men and women. It is understood that Governor Griffin Walker will be appointed on the board, and that succeeding governors will be ex-officio members of the board.

Visit Berry Schools. A party of those interested in the plan to build the St. Simon's schools Wednesday on an inspection tour. It is understood that Mrs. Berry offered any assistance possible in the plan to build the schools.

Those in the party included John A. Metcalf, Mrs. Anna D. Dodge and Mrs. Mary D. Dodge. They will be in the city for all the buildings to be constructed, Mrs. Dodge said.

ASHEVILLE PAPERS ON NON-UNION BASIS

Asheville, N. C., October 17.—The Asheville Times was operating on a non-union basis today following a strike for higher wages by members of the Typographical Union of the two papers. About 35 men walked out last night when the publishers refused to arbitrate demands for an increase ranging from $5 to $9 per week of 45 hours.

The publishers offered to renew contract at the old scale which they claim is higher than that of most papers in this section and approximately that of any paper in the south-eastern United States. They announced the papers hereafter will be published with non-union workers.

GERMANY TO CLOSE ST. LOUIS CONSULATE

St. Louis, Mo., October 17.—Hugo Mundt, German consul to St. Louis has announced he has received a telegram from Berlin directing him to close the local consulate indefinitely on account of the economic situation in Germany. Mundt declared that closing of the consulate was a part of a program of rigid economy announced by Chancellor Stresemann.

EAST URGED TO HELP FIGHT PITTSBURG PLUS

Chicago, October 17.—The participation of the east in the campaign against Pittsburgh plus will be enlisted at a conference today of attorneys-general and state commissioners belonging to the associated states, opposing Pittsburgh plus, according to Clifford Hilton, attorney-general of Minnesota, and president of the National Association of Attorneys-General. Mr. Hilton went to Washington in 1919 to argue for the first application of the anti-trust law against Pittsburgh plus.

Pittsburgh plus, the complaint against the east is vitally interested in Pittsburgh plus as well as the west.

PROTESTS HANGINGS WITHOUT JURY TRIAL

Pago Pago, American Samoa, October 17.—Correspondence of the Associated Press.—An appeal has been sent to President Coolidge asking that there be no more hangings in the American Samoa Islands.

Mr. Kneubuhl says Tooupu was tried without jury, that the judges were prejudiced and that Governor Edwin Hollock, U. S. N., admitted to him the evidence in the trial was unreliable.

Mr. Kneubuhl appeals to the president to prevent by law a man being executed without a review of the proceedings at Washington.

STARVED HEARTS

BY MILDRED BARBOUR

XVI. ACCIDENT OR DESIGN? The two little girls spent a week in San Francisco before going down to the fashionable winter resort which they had chosen for their destination.

Madelon was enchanted with the sunshine and the flower stands on every street corner. She rejoiced in the blue sky and the even blue Pacific. The Atlantic was the only ocean she had known, and she compared its cold, green, menacing waves with the warm, blue surf that curled lazily on the yellow sands of the California beaches.

Even Barbara awoke from her white apathy to share her interest; and it was two young women of vastly different mental attitudes who finally became established in a luxurious hotel suite at one of the southern California resorts.

It was impossible to be completely unhappy in that atmosphere of sunshine and blue waters, shining sand and fragrant flowers. Especially with all life before one. The very air seemed to give promise of joys to come, and the gay, smart, irresponsible holiday throng that filled the hotel and drifted up and down the beach was delightfully diverting.

Nevertheless the two girls lived very quietly. They preferred not to mix with their fellow guests at the big hotel, finding sufficient enjoyment in the air fragrant with flaming crimson and purple flowers cascading prodigally over the pretty bungalows that skirted the beach; in the warm blue sea that drifted in foam-flecked, on gleaming white sand.

It was paradise, after the cold

They would sit for hours on the sand under Barbara's gay crimson sunshade, scarcely speaking, each busy with her thoughts. Madelon, looking far out over the rolling sea, would be thinking of Julian Barton, trying to pierce the veil of the future as Youth does, hoping somewhere in that vast, mist-shrouded realm to find his beloved shadow.

Somewhere, across that illimitable expanse of blue water, beyond the Land of the Setting Sun, he was working, building, dreaming. Did he dream of her, she wondered? Did he carry a heartache, as she did? Had he hope for the future? Or had he already forgotten? How quickly men forget! Perhaps he would soon find solace in some English beauty. She abhorred the thought, but her own common sense told her that there was a lost hope. It would do them no good, bring them only prolonged unhappiness, to wait for the death of Stephen Lane. Indeed, there was something horrible and grisly in the thought of building one's happiness on death. She was afraid of such a trend of thought, lest the power of her own desire bring some harm to Lane.

She wondered, while the warm sand drifted through her slim fingers, while the warm sun kissed a rose flush to her cheeks and deepened the crimson of her mouth, if Barbara, sitting quietly beside her, thought of the same thing. Occasionally she spoke of him, but Barbara gave her no confidence. Except for her accidental discovery of his photograph, Madelon had never guessed the extent of their acquaintance.

A week or so after their arrival, Madelon met with a distinct surprise.

Crossing the lobby to the elevator one morning, she came face to face with the dark stranger who had crossed the continent with them.

He had disappeared when the train reached San Francisco and she had forgotten all about him. It was something of a shock to find him at the beach hotel. Was it only a curious coincidence—or design?

In view of his persistent gaze throughout their train journey, she was almost tempted to believe the latter.

At any rate, it caused her a bit of trouble. For years, later, she looked on the beach, she had an opportunity to look at him unobserved she found him strangely fascinating.

He was stretched at length on the sand, his dark head pillowed on one upturned arm. There was something curiously attractive in his indolence, which she later discovered.

was habitual. . . as a weak, lazy, well-groomed cat in attractive. On his face was the stamp of worldly-weariness. He looked as though he might have watched all the events of the world since the dawn of creation and found them only mildly amusing.

When she came to know him, many days later, he told her that he had experienced every emotion except death. At the time she thought it a pose; later she learned differently.

His physical appearance was arresting, even in that resort where handsome, well-groomed men were on every hand. His abundant dark hair was always carefully ruffled. Over his forehead and temples it was quite gray. His eyes were dark, unfathomable, with lids that drooped at the corners, giving them an almond shape—quaintly impenetrable, as though he mocked the world. His lean face was tanned and seriously lined, yet gave no impression of age. Rather they seemed to be the lines etched there by a life squandered too quickly.

For a week she saw him many times every day, on the verandas, in the dining rooms, on the beach. But he made no overture, as other male guests had endeavored to do.

Then, one afternoon, quite by accident, she caught him. He was sitting, she could not see his face. (Copyright, 1923, for The Constitution.)

DEBT COMMISSION EXPECTED TO MEET

Washington, October 17.—A meeting of the American debt commission within a week or ten days was forecast by Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, one of the members, after a conference today with Secretary Mellon.

He declined to disclose what developments had served to change previously announced plans to delay further meetings until the opening of congress.

Mr. Mellon was quoted a few days ago as saying that there were no matters requiring attention of the commission, and that he believed no call would go out until congress convened, at which time all matters of the commission would be in Washington. The commission, however, are by coincidence in the city now and Senator Smoot said today that he regarded a meeting for the purposes of a general discussion of conditions as desirable.

None of the members would confirm that steps were under consideration to reiterate to the foreign powers that the pending commission is ready to receive proposals. Senator Smoot's prediction of an early meeting, however, revived reports that some communication with the debtors governments of its intentions.

The commission is required by law to make an annual report of its operations to the secretary of the treasury and to congress. That report must be completed by November 10 and it is assumed the commission will pass upon material prepared for when the next conference is held.

JAPAN INVESTIGATING UNIVERSAL SUFFRAGE

Tokio, October 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—Premier Yamamoto has appointed a committee of five members of the cabinet to investigate the question of universal suffrage for the Japanese before the matter is taken up by the legislative affairs committee of the diet. The premier said:

"It is with the views of deliberating the question in these two respects that the government has appointed a committee which will conduct the necessary investigations. This committee will set forth its conclusions as the opinion of the ministry at the forthcoming conference of the legislative affairs committee."

Jane Hedden Hat Pattern

No. 64.

Model No. 64 has good corrective lines for the woman who has a full rather than an elongated face oval. The wide up-turned brim is softened by the embroidery and adds height or length to the face curves. The brim width from side to side detracts from the too wide face. By exaggerating the lines of the hat the lines of the face are made proportionate. A hat to be successful must make the wearer better looking with it on than without it. The construction of this model is very simple. By following the concise instructions that are sent with pattern No. 64, any woman who sews at all can make this hat in a few hours.

Material Required.

One soft pressed crown, 1-2 yard elastic net or willow, 4 yards brim wire, 1 cap lining, 11-2 yards 18-inch material of 3-4 yards of 36-inch material, beads.

Hat Pattern Order.

This order will bring you pattern and working instructions for making hat illustrated above. Fill in name and address, inclose 25 cents in stamps, postal note or coin—address your order to Hat Pattern Department, The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Inclosed find 25 cents. Please send me Jane Hedden Hat Pattern and instructions No. 2243.

CULLARS' SLAYING IS TOLD TO JURY

Lincolnton, Ga., October 17.—(Special.)—Details of the killing of Frank and Wayne Cullars on July 4 were told on the stand here today in the trial of Sheriff W. S. Harrison, charged with the murder of Frank Cullars, by W. L. Dodder and Frank Guillebeau, eye-witnesses to the shooting. For more than five hours the two witnesses were on the stand, telling their stories, and being grilled by attorneys.

The state rested its case after the testimony of Dodder and Guillebeau and three physicians who examined the bodies of the slain youths. Only one witness was introduced by the defense, Jeff Harrison being placed on the stand.

To Jury Thursday.

The case is expected to go to the jury Thursday.

Deputy Sheriff R. L. Burgess, charged with the murder of Frank and Wayne Cullars, will go on trial Friday morning.

Prospective jurors were excluded from the courtroom today, while the 100 witnesses were kept behind closed doors during the proceedings.

Courthouse is thronged and jammed with the largest crowd in the history of court procedure here. On account of the prominence of the persons concerned, the case is attracting unusual interest.

Frank and Wayne Cullars were sons of the late John B. Cullars, who represented Lincolnton county in the general assembly for a number of years. They were killed on the outskirts of Lincolnton.

Officers Surrendered.

The Cullars brothers died almost instantly from the officers' bullets. Seven bullets took effect in the body of Frank and five in Wayne, entire capacity discharge of the officers' pistols.

Sheriff Harrison and Deputy Burgess surrendered to the sheriff of Wilkes county with whom they remained for several days, but they were ordered by Judge E. T. Shurley to be removed to Atlanta. The officers remained in the Fulton county tower until released under a bond of $10,000 each by Judge Shurley on a hearing on application for bail on August 24.

It was reported that the Cullars brothers had some trouble with R. L. Burgess in Lincolnton on the afternoon of the killing, and they were dismissed by town authorities, one gun being taken by Mayor T. P. Mitchell and another by T. B. Steed, clerk.

The defense has retained Attorneys C. E. Sutton, of Washington; F. A. McWhorter, of Lincolnton; Judge Henry C. Hammond, of Augusta, and Judge J. D. Burnside, and John T. West, of Thomson. The prosecution is being handled by Solicitor General Marion Felts, of Warrenton; Attorneys Homer Legg, of Lincolnton; T. B. Brown, of Elberton; former Congressman W. M. Howard, of Augusta, and R. W. Ware, of Warrenton.

It might be added that man's efforts to reform man make countless thousands mourn.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Slayers of Elwell And of Dot King Known to Police

New York, October 17.—The slayers of Joseph B. Elwell and Dorothy King Keenan, victims in two of New York's most notorious murder mysteries, are known to the police, according to Police Commissioner Enright, but the evidence is insufficient to warrant arrests.

Elwell, a sportsman and bridge expert, was slain in his apartment one night in May, 1920, after he had been host at a roof garden party atop one of this city's most noted hotels.

Speaking over the radio last night on "police problems," Mr. Enright said:

"In these unsolved cases our books are not closed until the last principal involved is dead. About the Elwell and Dot King mysteries—many of these cases are not mysteries to the police department. The murderers are known but we have been unable to get the one percent additional legal evidence to make arrests.

The department never sleeps. We hope some day to get the other one percent of evidence. It is better to be sure of your shot than to miss."

TWO BOOZE PIRATES MAKE $36,000 HAUL

Yarmouth, N. S., October 17.—Long Island Sound "fishermen" were the villains of a tale involving the theft of liquor and cash in the tale related here today by Captain John Sims of the rum-running Dominion packet.

The packet law off Montauk Point, Long Island, with $6,400 in the skipper's safe and $30,000 worth of imported whiskey and cash, according to the captain.

Two fishermen bobbed up in a motorboat. "How much for 100 cases?" they shouted. Skipper Sims invited them aboard into his cabin.

"Let's see," the captain mused as he buried himself with the stub of a pencil. "One hundred cases will cost you—"

"Will cost us nothing," murmured one of the honest fishermen, digging a pistol into the skipper's ribs. The doughty captain at the invitation of the gun turned over the $6,400 in cash. When he went on deck again there was his crew with hands aflutter and the other gunman standing by.

Captain Sims said he had to stand by and see his whole crew of liquor loaded into the fishermen's motor boat.

Then Captain Sims set sail for Yarmouth with nothing but the experience to show for what had promised to be a profitable voyage for himself and crew.

COAL MEN DECLINE DEMAND OF PINCHOT

New York, October 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—Some of the coal operators who recently conferred with Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania at Harrisburg, declined his demand to stop selling coal to profiteering dealers, it was learned today in authoritative quarters. The governor, it was said, had asked operators to discontinue selling to these dealers because they charged more than the executive stated was necessary to meet increased wages.

The operators, it is understood, told the governor that the coal companies could not act in concert in selling coal as this would violate the law and also lay themselves open to charges of monopoly. They told the governor they had to mine and sell coal within the law.

When the governor asked the operators if it would not be possible to establish their own retail selling establishment, it is understood that they replied it would take years to bring about such a rearrangement and that it would not clear the present situation. The operators, it was said, told the governor that if he would use his efforts in getting the anthracite miners to increase production the situation will become normal shortly.

Brilliant Ceremony Marks Pratt-Bennett Nuptials

One of the most beautiful of the season's weddings, focusing the attention of society throughout the entire south, was that of Miss Margaret Logan Pratt, daughter of George L. Pratt, and Winchester Hooper Bennett, of Hammond, La., formerly of Memphis, which occurred Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's father on Lullwater road, in Druid Hills.

The nuptial ceremony was effected by W. W. Mumming, rector of All Saints church, and was witnessed by a large and distinguished gathering of friends and relatives.

Exquisite Setting.
The handsome home presented a scene of exquisite beauty and furnished a splendid setting for the occasion. Throughout the reception rooms, music room and solarium were placed groups of rich green palms and vases filled with Ophelia roses, while burning tapers placed in antique candelabra and arranged on mantels added a glow of beauty to the scene.

The wedding party stood before the altar in the library and a lovely tableau amid the beautiful surroundings. Tall pyramid palms, reaching from floor to ceiling, covered the entire length of the room, and formed the background of the altar. Placed in front, directly in the center, was a large white Tilly vase filled with feathery white dahlias and beautiful lilies, while on either side in groups of two were cathedral candelabra in which white tapers burned and gleamed.

Suspended directly above and formed of lilies and white dahlias, fringed with lilies of the valley and swansons, the whole studded with miniature electric lights, was a canopy in the shape of a four-leaf clover. The wedding vows were pledged on a satin prie dieu, which was outlined with lilies, amilax and white dahlias.

Harp Numbers.
A stringed orchestra rendered the wedding music. Forming a lovely part of the wedding picture was the gold harp, placed near the altar, on which Mrs. Mary Butt Griffith Dobbs, played in charming measure "At Dawning" and "Requiem" before entrance of the bridal party and strains from "Ave Maria" during the ceremony.

The bride's party descended the stairway which was entwined with amilax and adorned with baskets filled with lilies and white dahlias. Posts garlanded with amilax marked an aisle from the stairway to the altar.

Ribbon-bearers Enter.
First to descend were the little ribbon-bearers, Miss Ida Thomas, daughter of Mrs. Irving S. Thomas, and Elizabeth Thompson, daughter of Mrs. S. C. Thompson, who caught the ribbon to the post. Their dainty gowns were fashioned alike, one of blue turquoise chiffon and the other of pale chiffon. Tiny bow knots of silver ribbon and French flowers were caught at intervals, and they wore in their hair a wreath of French flowers on silver ribbon.

The first bridesmaid to enter was Miss Frances Powell and she was followed by Miss Dolly Hart and Miss Charlotte Wilkins. These lovely girls were gowned alike in turquoise blue chiffon velvet, draped in the back and caught with a silver bow, in the center of which was a brilliant rhinestone sunburst. Each wore in her hair a rhinestone tiara and carried bouquets of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley studded with ageratum, and showered with roses and lilies tied with orchid ribbon.

Miss Nancy Orme, daughter of Mrs. Frank Orme, was the junior bridesmaid, and her lovely costume was of blue chiffon elaborately trimmed with silver ribbon bow knots and French flowers. Her silver bandeau was outlined with flowers and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of Ophelia roses.

Locan Pratt, brother of the bride, and junior groomsmen, followed.

Lovely Matron of Honor.
Mrs. Sherwood Hurt, as matron of honor, was beautifully gowned in orchid chiffon velvet. The skirt was draped in the back and ornamented with a silver bow, the center of which was an elaborate rhinestone sunburst. Her handsome bouquet was formed of the same flowers as those carried by the bridesmaids.

Miss Telside Pratt was her sister's maid of honor and her gown of orchid chiffon velvet was designed in similar fashion to Mrs. Hurt's, and was also trimmed with a handsome rhinestone sunburst. She carried a resplendent bouquet of Ophelia roses, lilies of the valley and ageratum, showered with orchid ribbon caught with sprays of valley lilies and roses.

Little Kathleen Pratt, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl. She was dressed in a charming frock of orchid chiffon trimmed with French flowers and silver ribbon and she carried a basket of rose petals which she scattered before the bride.

Lovely Bride.
The bride, her dainty brunette loveliness enhanced by her wedding costume, was a picture of girlish beauty and charm as she descended with her father, George Pratt, and joined the groom and his best man, Robert Wilkinson, of Memphis, thus completing the effective tableau.

Her wedding gown of heavy bridal satin was elaborately embroidered in effective design with crystals and pearls, the trimming extending from the bottom of the skirt to the waistline, where it was caught with a handsome pearl ornament, and crossing the bodice to the shoulder. There was a circular flounce of Brussels lace point lace on one side, and a circular collar of the same lace extended in tiny points over the arms. The long court train fell from the shoulder in graceful length and was elaborately embroidered in crystals and pearls. The exquisite tulle veil was outlined with rose point lace, and

Judge Sibley Is Host To "Ten Club" At Marietta Home

Judge Samuel H. Sibley was host to the "Ten club," of Atlanta, at a delightful dinner at his beautiful Marietta home on Wednesday evening.

Kennesaw mountain furnished the motif for the decorations of the elegantly appointed table. The central adornment was a miniature Kennesaw, perfect in every detail, even to the trenches! The place cards were pictures of Kennesaw and the cigars were "Kennesaw Smokers."

Judge Sibley's guests were: Judge Marcus Beck, Marion L. Brittain, Walter Cooper, Frederick J. Faxon, Judge Arthur Powell, Hugh M. Willett, R. M. Pegram, Eugene Black, and William H. Sibley.

Yaarab Patrol To Give Dance.

The Yaarab patrol of the Shrine will give a dance on Friday evening, October 20, at 9 o'clock at the East Lake Country club.

The entertainment committee has arranged for several special features for the entertainment of the guests. Refreshments will be served and an eight-piece orchestra will furnish music from 9 to 1 o'clock.

Tickets are $2.00 and can be had from any patrolman, or at the Shrine club.

Pretty Church Ceremony Unites Miss Chancellor and Mr. Trimble

A marriage of interest, characterized by unusual beauty, was that of Miss Lucille Virginia Chancellor, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sebastian Chancellor and Philip Augustus Trimble, which was solemnized Wednesday evening, October 17, taking place at 6:30 o'clock at St. Mark church.

The marriage service was performed by Dr. J. B. Mitchell in the presence of large assemblage of relatives and friends.

Mrs. Charles F. Hoke at the organ rendered a beautiful selection of music during the assembling of the guests. Charles F. Hoke sang "All For You," and just before the ceremony, "Bless You" was sung.

Church Decorations.

The altar of the church was banked high with palms and ferns and on either side rose tall white French baskets filled with white dahlias and chrysanthemums. Standing against the background of the foliage were massive cathedral candelabra holding burning white tapers. Pews reserved for the family and close friends were marked by clusters of white dahlias tied with satin ribbon.

Bridal Party.
The groomsmen entered separately and were G. Clarendon Chancellor, brother of the bride; A. F. Trimble and George Caldwell Speir.

FEDERATION DELEGATES WILL VOTE TODAY ON NEW OFFICERS

Sessions Wednesday
Busy and Delightful;
Great Progress ShownBy Bessie Stafford,
Editor Woman's Department The Constitution.

Rome, Ga., October 17.—(Special.) Delegates to the 27th annual state convention of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs in session here Wednesday passed one of the busiest and most enjoyable days in the history of the organization and look forward to another day of activity tomorrow when the session will be featured by the election of officers.

Action was taken today advancing the election from its scheduled time of Friday morning to Thursday afternoon so that any delegates who might find it necessary to leave before the conclusion of the convention might not be deprived of their votes.

An interesting symposium on club work by the district presidents, bringing out the advanced hints in federation work, marked the night session. The afternoon was devoted largely to an illuminating discussion of American citizenship and club institutes.

Reports of officers showing a phenomenal growth in the club work of Georgia, important recommendations by the president and the state director, advocating among other things the establishment of headquarters in Atlanta and the appointment of untrained delegates and a number of interesting addresses and hospitable social functions were other outstanding points in the day's activities.

Mrs. Richardson Reports.
With Mrs. Alonzo Richardson and Mrs. S. V. Sanford assisting Mrs. J. Hays in conducting Wednesday afternoon's session, the program was largely devoted to the American citizenship department, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, chairman, and club institutes, led by Mrs. S. V. Sanford. Mrs. Richardson reported splendid work accomplished by her department during the year and laid emphasis upon the great future of her department work. Mrs. R. L. Hankinson, of McDonough, was a speaker on Mrs. Richardson's program, stressing the advantages of intensive training in American citizenship and calling the attention of club women to the obligations imposed upon them by suffrage.

Mrs. Richardson spoke illuminatingly on efficiency in club work, the financing of clubs, club budgets and club programs as an outstanding speaker on the club institute program presided over by Mrs. Sanford. Other prominent speakers in the club institute were Mrs. Rosa Woodberry, who spoke on "Club Organization,"

Mrs. W. F. Melton, on "Clubhouses," Mrs. Ira Farmer, on "Club Relations," and Mrs. A. H. Brenner, on "Club Ethics."

Miss Woodberry outlined the duties of officers, rules governing club constitutions and the general machinery of the federation. Mrs. Melton stressed the example of Carversville, Woodberry and Atlanta in constructing suitable clubhouses which also filled the needs of community houses.

Ovation for Mrs. Farmer.
Mrs. Ira Farmer was given an ovation at the close of a highly humorous address on "Club Relations" in which a number of available ideas were set forth. Mrs. A. H. Brenner went at length into the ethics pertaining to club affairs and was heard with the closest attention.

Mrs. Samuel Inman, director for Georgia, appealed for fulfillment of pledges on headquarters fund and, assisted by Mrs. Price-Smith, put on a drive for the $1,000 due on the $3,000 pledged by the Georgia delegates to the national convention in Chattanooga, N. Y. Approximately $50 was raised at the afternoon session toward clearing this obligation by her committee. A new administration takes office.

Mrs. W. W. Stark, credentials chairman, reported 170 delegates attending the convention close to 500. The nominating committee convened during the afternoon and prepared the ticket which will be presented to the convention on Thursday morning.

Mrs. Spencer Atkinson, chairman of the nominating committee, will present the ticket as prepared by the committee. Mrs. Atkinson, past president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs and one of Atlanta's outstanding club women, is among the leading members of the Uncle Remus Memorial association, the Sheltering Arms, Home for the Friendless, Home for Incurables, Cripple Children's home, Fine Arts club and is president of the Grady Hospital auxiliary. Mrs. Atkinson has a long record of service in the cause of organized women and was for many years a leader in D. A. R. activities, being regent of Joseph Habersham chapter, in 1910-11. Mrs. Atkinson served as a chairman of applied education for the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs when Mrs. J. P. McGovern was president of the club. As the war president of the Atlanta federation, Mrs. Atkinson organized the immense war work of Atlanta women during the world war and for two and a half years devoted her entire time to emergencies and the demands made upon her organization during that period, bringing the Red Cross work of her organization to remarkable prominence.

Symposium by Presidents.
A most interesting symposium of talks by district presidents marked the night session.

Mrs. E. R. Hines, district president, prefaced her talk with the fact that she took it for granted that an ideal relationship is one that works for good of both club and press, and gave as her reason for the relationship being a paying factor, the interest derived by first, the individual; second, the club; third, the community; fourth, the other clubs; fifth, the state federation; sixth, the general federation.

Mrs. C. H. Kittrell gave as her theme that above all things the federation stands for works—for the development of all the resources, that it is one of the prime ends in view in federation work.

Mrs. D. B. Smith said that since the establishment of the republic we have relied upon our American women to furnish the motive power of patriotism. There is the privilege of furnishing the children to the country. There is the duty of making the homes. There is the force that incites and continues the spiritual fire of religion in the minds of men. They have been the inspiration in war and peace for which men have fought and striven that the country might live and prosper and their ideals have done much to bring America to its proud place among the nations of the world.

Mrs. Hubert Yow said the club is peculiarly related to both individual and community. Back of all progress there are underlying energies that have been directed toward that progress. When these energies are educated and organized much more can be accomplished than when we work alone. Woman was created the natural helper and instigator.

Attended First Convention.
A group of prominent women who attended the first convention in Rome 25 years ago, presented in person by Mrs. Oscar Peoples, Carversville, Ga.; Mrs. J. A. Rounselle, Rome, Ga.; Mrs. John Thomas, Dalton, Ga.; Mrs. J. Lindsey Johnson, Rome, Ga.; Mrs. C. S. Sparks, Rome, Ga.; Mrs. T. D. Brown, Rome, Ga.; Mrs. C. C. Pringle, Rome, Ga.; Mrs. John K. Outley, Atlanta, Ga.

Business Session.
The first business session of the convention opened at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning in the auditorium. Mrs. J. E. Hays, the first vice president, presiding. Mrs. E. R. Hines, president of the tenth district, led in the assembly singing of "America, the Beautiful," the official General Federation song. The invocation was given by Rev. H. Fields Saunings, pastor of St. Peter's church. Miss Rosa Woodberry, parliamentarian, read the rules and regulations governing the convention which were accepted as read.

Officers' Reports.
The reports of the officers included that of Mrs. Samuel L. Inman, General Federation director. In her address she advocated the establishing of permanent headquarters in Atlanta, urged the strict observance of the constitution of the clubs in the practice of parliamentary rules. She is conducting a class in parliamentary law every morning at the General Forrest hotel preceding the convention, the class numbering 100 members.

Treasurer's Report.
The report of the treasurer, Mrs. J. Sproule Lyons, of Atlanta, was gratifying to the club members as it showed a balance in the treasury of the club activities. The treasurer, who has served a longer term than usual, having served almost one year by appointment to the office after the resignation of the former treasurer and four years by election, showed what great advancement had been made financially by the club. A rising vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Lyons.

Mrs. S. V. Sanford, of Augusta, corresponding secretary, reported a large amount of detail work done and recommended that the General Federation be incorporated in the state, always near the president's city. She urged a method for securing names of club officers in time for the year books.

Mrs. Albert N. Hill, of Greenville, recording secretary, reported that the year book, the financing of which has been the largest item of expense for the year, is more than paid for by the advertisement. She stated that $225 had been turned over to the treasurer.

Mrs. J. P. Brantley, first vice president, reported that 54 new clubs, with a total membership of 1,210, have been federated and seven others have been federated for next year. These are the Bronze club, Dallas, Grady Hospital auxiliary, Oostepath club, Woman's Club of Gay, and the West End Women's club, this last having a charter membership of 66.

Fifty Thousand Members.
During the four years Mrs. Brantley has been vice president and chairman of club extension, 194 new clubs have been federated, very few of the new clubs, and the total now is 485 clubs with an approximate membership of 50,000. Interest in organization and federation continues and Mrs. Brantley stated that no body of organized women is too small to be valuable, and that renewed efforts be made in organizing federation for the coming year.

The Rome Junior Music Lovers' orchestra, organized and directed by Mrs. Will Harbin, is one of the outstanding features on the program. Mrs. Fred Vassier, of Rome, is president of the state federation of music clubs and is justly proud of the organization.

Mrs. McCord Roberts, vice chairman of the press and publicity department, general federation of women's clubs, delivered the first address this morning, speaking on the public relations departments of women's clubs. Mrs. Roberts emphasized the remarkable progress given by the press and declared that the greatest need of the hour in federation circles is a higher valuation of the dignified and powerful press work written within the club.

Whenever you find a going organization accomplishing worth-while undertakings, there you find the press giving its steady support. Mrs. Roberts said and Mrs. Brantley, the press chairman in the official program, Mrs. Roberts was the recipient of a handsome basket of flowers from Atlanta friends at the close of her address.

In the report on state institutes, Mrs. Oscar McKenzie, of Montezuma, state chairman, an appeal was made for interest in legislation giving to state institutions an increased appropriation. Emphasizing the great and urgent need of this long promised appropriation an especial request was made for interest in the Georgia ica, the Beautiful," the official General Federation song. The invocation was given by Rev. H. Fields Saunings, pastor of St. Peter's church. Miss Rosa Woodberry, parliamentarian, read the rules and regulations governing the convention which were accepted as read.

Memorial Service.
Mrs. M. L. Troutman, a distinguished woman, formerly of Rome now of Athens, conducted the memorial service with music by the special service orchestra, which played "O'pin's" "Funeral March." Mrs. Troutman's introductory remarks reminded the federation of the responsibility assumed in taking the work of those who have gone before, and who laid such splendid foundations for them.

Mrs. John H. Wood, second vice president of the Rome Women's club, gave a scriptural reading, closing with a solo, Handel's "Angels, Ever Bright and Fair," sung by Miss Miriam Reynolds, one of the most talented clubwomen. A resolution was introduced.

A beautiful courtesy adapted by the convention by Mrs. Robert Blackburn, a memorial wreath was placed on the grave of the first Mrs. Woodrow Wilson in Myrtle Hill cemetery. The first Mrs. Wilson died on the 15th of September, 1902, at the age of 68, and was buried in the same cemetery.

The department of legislation is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Robert L. Berner, of Macon, who urged establishment of a council to be called a council on the training of women in the club movement. A resolution was introduced to place in the membership of the general assembly and the vote of members on questions of state and national importance.

Resolutions receiving the first reading were introduced by the chairman of the resolutions, Mrs. W. H. Griffin, included the following: "That the Tallulah Falls industrial school shall be incorporated under a new charter and its administration placed in the hands of a board of trustees, composed of the state president, district presidents by virtue of office and not more than 30 electors, all trustees to be members of the Georgia Federation to institute treasurers in all district federations."

Four lovely young girls, Misses Naomi Holms, Nettie Smith, Johnnie Camp and Nellie Shifflett, delegates from the Louise Hays club of the State Normal school, read at the request of the president of the federation to represent this club which has 800 members.

Miss Beverly Wheat, executive secretary of the Georgia library commission, speaks on the program Thursday evening. She will be introduced by Mrs. J. E. Hays, first vice president, having succeeded Miss Charlotte Templeton.

The convention pages include the following charming young girls: Miss Sarah Nunnally, chairman; Miss Louise Hays, Miss Godwyn Denny, Miss Ethel Stiles, Miss Mabel Owens, Miss Virginia Daniel, Miss Amelia Berry, Miss Jessie Golden, Miss Mary Peoples. Luncheon at the Coosha Country club, given in honor of the visiting delegates, was a very enjoyable social event.

Delightful Breakfast.
One of the social events of the convention was the breakfast served at the Forrest hotel in honor of the district presidents and its past presidents. Mrs. Sproule Fouché, with Mrs. W. C. Martin, president of seventh district, presided. The table was attractively arranged with a basket of soft sponges and a centerpiece. Exquisite favors added a decorative note. Place cards in federation colors lay before the guests. The first letter of the guests' names, and were descriptive of the guests. These were read and the first note in the program was fun and enjoyment. Mrs. Heimsohn, president of the second district, was toastmistress. The subjects of the toasts afforded much amusement.

Mrs. Martin told a funny story. Mrs. Albert Aker's subject "Which is the Best Woman's Club, the Kiwanis or the Rotary?" It was concluded that both were eligible. Mrs. Hubert Yow spoke of a story of her district work. Mrs. Lewis gave a very apt discourse on "Which is Best Governor, Walter or Fincher?" Mrs. Hines was appointed campaign manager for Johnny Sencer of The Telegraph in his race against Will Rogers, of Texas, for president of the United States. Mrs. Shines spoke convincingly in behalf of Johnny who was unanimously elected.

Mrs. Wood, of Savannah, told a humorous story. She told also of the beauty of Savannah's memorial drive. Mrs. Ketchum preached a sermon from third chapter and 23rd verse of Mother Goose.

Mrs. Smith's subject was a "Fair Way to Hold a Fair" and she told of a south Georgia fair to be held in the fall.

Mrs. Heimsohn proved herself a charming toastmistress and Mrs. Martin a most gracious hostess. Courses were presented guest by Mr. Heimsohn.

It was voted to send a message of love and sympathy to Mrs. Jeff Davis who was absent on account of illness.

Women are held to club life for the sake of the future of their children, the object of their aims and ideals to make the world better for their children. The theme of the report made by Mrs. James E. Hays, president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, at the twenty-seventh annual convention held Wednesday in the auditorium in Rome.

President's Recommendations.
The president's recommendations were: 1. The endorsement of all resolutions passed by council of the general federation; 2. That a permanent headquarters be established in Atlanta; 3. That a continuous committee be appointed, whose duty shall be to keep the history and the policies of the federation alive; that this committee shall secure a copy of all books of minutes of the federation and of the executive board meetings and have them bound; that pictures of the founders and of past presidents be secured and framed and kept at headquarters; that the scrap books and all records be kept at headquarters; 4. That a resolution be introduced to place in the federation publish a bulletin; 5. That steps be taken to complete the Ella F. White endowment; 6. That club institutes be continued; and 7. That delegates to any convention go un-instructed.

"Club work is worth while," said Mrs. Hays, "because it gives the individual woman an opportunity to discover her personality and possibilities. It gives her a broader viewpoint of life, that she may be a better mother, wife, homemaker and neighbor. It creates a spirit of co-operation and service and unselfishness in the welfare of the community and city beautiful. It inspires her to bigger deeds and broader thinking."

"The good club woman, by her many benefits, for if she gives to the club the best that she has, the best comes back to her."

Second to No State.
"The Georgia Federation ranks second to no state in the General Federation, attributable to several unusual achievements. The Georgia Federation is the only state which has entertained the General Federation, the Atlanta Women's Club having entertained this year in May. The Georgia Federation was a pioneer in starting a universal membership in the General Federation, Iowa and Georgia were the first two states to join as a whole. The Georgia Federation gave $3,000 to general headquarters and was the only state to make a loan to the General Federation to secure headquarters. The Georgia Federation was one of the first states to reorganize its departments to conform with changes in the General Federation. The Georgia Federation is the only state which owns and maintains a school. The General Federation elected Georgia's president as its recording secretary. Two Georgia clubwomen, Mrs. Robert Blackburn and Miss Annie Lee Feagle, won honorable mention in the national literature contest. The ability of Miss Hays as a chairman of home economics of the tenth district, was also recognized in the General Federation when the national chairman used her plans and bulletin for national department. Georgia believes that she has the club which will win the $1,000 prize which the Pictorial Review is offering for the best all-round club in the United States," pointed out Mrs. Hays in speaking of the outstanding relations of the state federation to the General Federation. "Year by year our vision has been broadening. We feel more and more our responsibility as citizens and there has been borne in upon us a knowledge of our strength when we stand together on any vital problem."

Mrs. Hays concluded her report with the following words, "The eternal debt of maturity to childhood and youth shall be paid, if we give our earnest and intelligent thought, and pull together."

Business Session.
The outstanding feature of the business session of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs held in the auditorium Tuesday morning was the acceptance and adoption by the convention of the recommendations presented by the president, Mrs. E. R. Hays. One of these recommendations was that delegates to any convention should go un-instructed, and upon this recommendation she commented as follows: "May I say personally it is my opinion that delegates to any convention should be un-instructed. They are not wise enough, loyal enough, trustworthy enough to express the wish of the majority of the body sending them, subject to new conditions which always arise. They are not the high type of delegates your organizations deserve. Again many a grievous error has been made by the pledging strength and help too early in a campaign."

Election Moved Up.
Of prime importance is the moving up of the election of officers for the Georgia Federation. The election was held on Friday morning to Thursday afternoon, the polls to open at 2 o'clock. This was suggested by Mrs. S. V. Sanford, program chairman, and put as a motion by Mrs. S. R. C. Morgan, of Savannah, life director.

Mrs. Spencer Atkinson was appointed Mrs. Hays organization chairman of the nominating committee, this committee to report Thursday morning held the first meeting Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The tellers for election include: Mrs. Charles Pitner, Rome; Mrs. Cordelia Deal, Rome; Mrs. W. F. Melton, Emory university; Mrs. Sproule Fouché, Rome; Mrs. Phoebe Davis Kellogg, Augusta; Mrs. H. A. Ritchie, Athens; Mrs. Walter Purdon, Sparks; Mrs. J. W. Hocks, Gordon; Mrs. J. E. D. Bacon, Savannah; Mrs. Alan Strickland, Valdosta; Mrs. J. B. McElroy, Norcross; Mrs. M. Arthur, Albany; Mrs. Albert Foster, Madison.

Mrs. Inman's Address.
Rome, Ga., October 17.—Closer cooperation between the president, district presidents, clubs and the director and establishment of state headquarters were urged by Mrs. Samuel Inman, Atlanta, director, in an address prepared for delivery to day before members of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, in annual convention here.

Until state headquarters are established, the work of the federation and its officials will be handicapped. Mrs. Inman stated, adding that a central point from which accurate information could be obtained by the 40,000

Piedmont W. C. T. U.
To Hold Meeting.
Piedmont W. C. T. U. will meet Friday afternoon at Wesley Memorial church at 3 o'clock. A full attendance is urged as reports from the state convention will be read.

Members and instructions issued was necessary.

"If delegates attending a national convention would organize, confer with other states in their group, and go after what they want, much more could be accomplished," the director said. "A great deal of effort has been lost by not standing together solidly, and not understanding just what the situation is."

The director urged that the federation go on record as being for law enforcement.

"If our state is to be 100 per cent so our children's children may rise up and bless the clubwomen of Georgia as well as elsewhere for their part in our shoulders to the wheel as never before," she asserted. "Our bar associations, our judges, our deep thinkers, every one sounding a note of alarm. The American Bar association that the criminal situation in the United States, as far as crimes of violence are concerned, are worse than in any other civilized country."

The director urged that full cooperation be given educational movements.

Mrs. Ketchum Speaks.
One great menace to local merchants in Georgia is the woman's inclination to go elsewhere for clothing. Mrs. D. C. Ketchum, president of the third district, told members of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, in session here, tonight.

"The weathered woman think they must go to the eastern cities and even to Paris for the best, while our poorer women think they must resort to the mail order houses for the cheapest," she said.

"No wonder so many merchants in Georgia have failed. It was stated last year at Athens that 90 per cent of the consumers are clubwomen. Surely we do not expect the other 10 per cent to buy the products we advocate if we do not buy them ourselves. Let us pledge at least this next year to Georgia—buy in Georgia and buy Georgia products."

In speaking on the subject of "The Federation's Relationship in Marketing Georgia Products," Mrs. Ketchum stated that district presidents had reported "splendid" work along this line. The clubwomen have assisted

Tech Marionettes To Open Season In Griffin

The Tech Marionettes, the south's leading college dramatic club, will open the season of 1923-24 with a performance in Griffin, Ga., on December 1, under the auspices of the Griffin Woman's club.

The vehicle chosen by the Marionettes for their first presentation of the year is "Polly With a Past," a three-act comedy by George Middleton and Guy Bolton. This well-known comedy was first presented by David Belasco several years ago with Miss Ina Claire in the featured role.

"Polly With a Past" will admirably serve as a "follow-up" of "Clarence," which is considered by all as the greatest success of the young actors of Georgia Tech, and will be staged on just as elaborate lines as was the latter. It contains many splendid roles and is most conveniently adapted to the talents of the Marionettes. It will prove one of the most difficult undertakings of the club, due mainly to the several leading feminine roles that must be portrayed by the boys themselves. The leading role is that of "Polly Shannon," the part played by Ina Claire.

Those who are trying out for the various parts are Jimmie Whitfield, president of the Marionettes; Dwight Palin, Pat Johnson, Lawrence Petri, Max Golden, Henry Edwards, Fraser Law, Pat Fisher, William Scherfius, Eric Seimens, H. Shuprine, Ralph Woodside and William Ware.

Rehearsals have started on the play and will continue until the first performance in Griffin. The week following the premier showing, on December 7 and 8, the players will make their Atlanta debut for the season. After the Atlanta performances, "Polly With a Past" will be carried on the road, playing several of the leading cities of South Carolina.

Miss Florence Eckford will entertain the members of the O. B. X. sorority of Washington seminary this afternoon at her home on Peachtree circle.

Laurence-Oastler Wedding Is Quiet Home Event

A wedding of unusual beauty and simplicity was that of Miss Leslie Lucille Laurence and Thomas William Oastler which was solemnized Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Laurence on Drewry street, in the presence of a large group of relatives and close friends.

Artistic Decorations.
The ceremony was performed by Dr. B. R. Lacy, Jr., in the drawing room of the home which was banked with palms and ferns and French baskets of dahlias and roses.

White satin ribbons marked an aisle for the bride. Preceding the entrance of the bride party, Miss Mary Buttrick sang, "At Dawning," and "Because," accompanied by Miss Marion Gaines, who played the wedding march. Miss Lottie Laurence, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and the only attendant, and was gown in rose colored georgette with overdresses of silver lace. She wore a silver dress with a corsage of Ophelia-roses. Assisting in entertaining was Mrs. P. P. Hanley and Miss Katherine Hanley, Miss Robert Harbour, Miss L. F. Laurence and Mrs. J. H. Britt. During the evening Mr. Oastler and his bride left for a wedding journey to Jacksonville, and other points of interest in Florida after which they will be at home on Greenwood avenue. Mrs. Oastler is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Laurence and received her education at Washington Seminary, where she was a very popular student. She was a sponsor of Tech for two years where she was an acknowledged belle. Mr. Oastler graduated from Emory university and was a popular member of the Chi Phi fraternity and other social clubs. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Oastler who formerly resided in Arkansas. He is a prominent young attorney and is associated with the Atlanta Title and Trust company.

Florida Visitor Is Honor Guest At Bridge Club

Miss Marjorie Weldon was hostess to her bridge club Wednesday afternoon at her home on Piedmont avenue, in compliment to Mrs. Thomas Bryan, of Fort Lauderdale, Florida, who is the guest of her sister, Mrs. John R. Ellis.

The rooms where the game was played were lovely in their decoration of fall flowers. The tea table was overlaid with a cover of lace. A large silver loving cup filled with huge pink peonies and fern adorned the center. Silver candlesticks holding unshaded pink tapers were placed at intervals and shed a soft glow over the pretty scene. Dainty hand-painted novelties were given as prizes. The honor guest was presented with an attractive hand-painted novelty. The hostess wore a gown of tangerine chiffon combined with brown lace.

Students Invited To Use Library

The Atlanta lodge of the Theosophical society extends to all students interested in philosophic, scientific, and occult writings the use of its library. The books may be taken out for two weeks. Among the numerous writers represented in the library are Dr. Annie Besant, Bishop C. W. Ledbeater, H. P. Blavatsky and Henry Steele Olcott, also C. J. Inanadous.

The lodge room, 303 Grand theater building, is open every afternoon from until 5 o'clock.

The Daughter Of Helen Kent

Next Week: "THE FIFTH ACE."
BY DOUGLAS GRANT.

"And, anyway," he pursued, "do you greatly object to being thus stolen and carried off from town—on such a day?"

Her eyes swept the river, the lawn, the trim beds of tulips, the stately old pillars of the veranda, and returned to the peeping lettuce leaves between golden-brown triangles of toast. "Although thirty-nine and a cynic," said she demurely, "I admit the charms of folly—on such a day."

"On such a day," she said later on, "I am tempted to the bucolic life and commutation. But it tired my nerves even in California—they could never stand it in New York."

The physician's swift scrutiny raked her. You look as if the foundation were firm. If the nerves tire, it's more because they have been overstrained than through any fundamental weakness.

"Yes. They went through a good deal—once upon a time. But that's over."

He made no reply, continuing to look into her with that deep penetration which is in itself sympathy, because of its profound understanding.

For a minute he saw eyes staring out over the river, then, astounding herself, she turned abruptly to him, and said: "I went through a prolonged hell. My husband gambled himself into poverty, drank himself into loathsomeness and wound up by offering me the ultimate insult. I struck out with the baby. I've gone it alone ever since. He died a few years ago. That's the whole story."

Never before in all the years had she said as much to any save those persons intimately concerned in her affairs. As the fact fell from her, stark in all their brutality, she realized this; and next she realized the wonderful perfection of the man's silence. She went on, "I sometimes think it was better, after all, that the truth so early—that man, as a husband, is impossible—that 'love' is a delusion, and that marriage is the tragedy of woman's life. Most girls have to come to it later—they are kept longer in the clouds, where they are unable to see anything clearly. It's to spare my child what I went through—the finding out by bitter personal experience—that I've brought her up to know facts as they are. I've called a spade a spade to her. She has been taught to realize that her one chance for a successful life is to avoid the romantic moonshine known as 'love.' We're going to live an ideal life together, free, as woman should always be free."

She glanced up to find the serious gray eyes fixed upon her with an odd look. It was a look neither of approval nor disapproval, but both penetrating and kind, almost pitying. The car whirled its way home through the delicious chill fragrance of late afternoon. "I have cherished the fancy," said Dr. Aspiden, "to possess myself of some rambling, honeyed farmhouse, where I could live in a crowd—quite lost, in fact, so that only a few intimate friends shall know its whereabouts; and there make unto myself a dwelling for winter times and seasons the whim shall prompt. Run out to it for a week-end or a fortnight's vacation, and desert it for months at a time if I please—but always know it is there, snug in some valley, and awaiting me."

He turned to her, and she found her face alight. "What a realm of bliss!" she exclaimed. "To be able completely to shake humanity, at such times as it becomes insufferable! To commune with one's percolator and one's cigarette in heavenly solitude—'Exactly!' His own enthusiasm ignited at her. "Spreading rooms, easy chairs, shaded lamps, books, curtains, cushions—"

"And a dining porch throws out to the east—"

"Good! What sort of tableware?" "Blue-and-white it shall be. The coolest for summer breakfasts."

"Blue-and-white it shall be. The same east porch will be ready for looking on hot afternoons and evenings. A Gloucester hamper—"

"Stop thief!" she cried at last. "For it is nothing less than thieving thus to rob me of snug comfort in my small urban apartment!"

The car was drawing up at her door. Alone, Helen entered the elevator in a preoccupied sparkle. Her brilliant eyes were seeing a long way off, apparently.

Within she found a distracted Bec—frightened over her failure to return home at the usual time.

"Darling, to think I've got you again, and safe!" Bec was perched on the arm of Helen's chair; her hands dropped against Helen's shining hair; her olive-white neck. Whatever resentments had been breeding during the recent weeks were dispelled for the time, at least, in that hour of Bec's panic at Helen's absence, all her old passionate devotion had surged back in an overpowering tide.

"I'm so sorry. I didn't realize that you would worry so. It was very careless of me not to telephone," Helen halted. "I had to go—that is, I went—up beyond town, and I took time to snatch a bite, which made me late—in fact," she stated, "the once-crusty Dr. Aspiden asked me to ride this afternoon, and we had tea at a restaurant up the river."

As Helen's brief explanation unfolded, Bec had felt as though a hand seized her throat. Her heart seemed rending—she felt about to shriek, and she felt struck dumb, both at once. For seconds she stood in locked silence; then, with a rush of tears, she fled to her room. And now she stood there, face to face with the sky, and she cried to it.

"I want my own! I have a right to it now! She has forfeited every right to forbid me! She—who does as she pleases, preaches eating and practicing another. I'm going to take my happiness—it's mine—I have a right to it! I told him goodby forever the other day; but now, now—I'll call him back!"

that flows all around like air, and it goes everywhere all at once, and so it must reach everybody, as if everything were one, and so why can't it go to him and tell him, oh, tell him—he find me! Keep her from separating us ever—ever again!"

On the following evening she reached her retreat under the stars to find a dim figure on a near-by roof. At her appearance, it crossed rapidly over the two intervening roofs, and took her into its arms.

"I'll—be able—to talk—in a few minutes, Philip. The reason you—you frightened me so, was that the thing I expected really happened." Her words were panting themselves out against his breast.

"Then you knew I would, must come?"

"I called you," Bec said. "And so he it was always to remain that she had called him and he had answered, despite his explanation of his mysterious appearance. The day after seeing you, I began my series of charges upon innocent housewives throughout this vicinity. I have spent all my available time since in scheming, trickery, coercion, assault and battery, to get a room in some apartment beneath one of the contiguous roofs; and without success until this evening, when one Mrs. Coon, three doors away, yielded at last at the point of the bayonet and for a fabulous sum in advance. And all this, Bequitha said, that I might perhaps only once tread this sky path to the lady of my thoughts upon her roof of Dreams, once see her among her flowers and stars. Perhaps I shall be summarily dismissed. My fate lies in your hands." Again he drew her to him, her face turned up to his; his own bent nearer, his lips approaching. She did not resist; but from the curious miscellany of conduct rules gathered here and there and heaped within her untamed mind, a faint protest voiced itself. "But people don't—don't kiss each other until they're engaged."

"Then the sooner we settle the preliminaries, the better!" "Settle—what?" "At whatever time her 'ship-away' chance offered, Bec would go to meet her lover. There under the little canopy he would come to her, and all heaven would open wide and dance with its splendor and drug her with rapture."

Yes, there was a postoffice; a ravishing toy, the oldest old Toby that Philip counted one of his priceless treasures. They had buried it in a corner of one of the flower boxes, covered it with a veil of ivy; they spoke of Toby as their postmaster, and entrusted to his pottery protection from wind, moisture, prying eyes and theft, their daily correspondence. When Philip found there a note telling him to come early in the afternoon it meant that Helen was to drive with Dr. Aspiden that afternoon, and would not be at home until dinner time. These drives were becoming frequent, as were the doctor's calls at the little apartment.

CHAPTER VIII.

Summer entered, and Bec's school days came to an end. "Now for a long summer's rest," Helen said. "We shall spend July in the mountains, and you shall begin the new work until autumn. Then for the great career! Then begins the famous partnership for fortune! Miss and Mrs. Croesus—here's to them!"

And even while Helen raised her coffee cup with a gesture that claimed the future for her own, her daughter was inwardly revolving the problem which had been growing more and more pressing of late: how was the great debut to be accomplished? For there was no use in giving any more lessons," Zelle had said, "You're more than ready. But how we're going to find a chance for you to star in a performance of the highest order and

"Now then," Zelle went on with business-like earnestness. "You're going to Manito Summit Park for your outing?"

"Yes."

Dove-tails exactly. Now for it. The high-mucky mucks of Easle's Eyrie Park, a few miles beyond, are getting up a sort of pageant—some class, believe me! They've got Edmund Lyall Van Buren to design the whole thing, costumes and all—the artist that's doing 'em for all the new plays. What do you know about that? And—"

"But—but what?" Bec panted.

"You'll learn in time, my child," Zelle's haste seemed to have passed. To resume: this show is to represent some American Indian legends. Very appropriate and all that, in the wilds of nature et cetera. And the piece de resistance—"Zelle paused impressively, and fixed her eyes upon Bec—"is to be the scene where the White Maiden, a Spirit of the Waterfall, appears to the Indians who are dying of thirst, and leads them to the cascade. She flits up to them through the woods, then comes to the edge of the gone-dry waterfall, and there she dances—dances, mind you—a dance that represents the bubbling, leaping cascade—do you get me? And that dance is expected to be some pumpkins! The Indians sit around singing, audience ditty. Everybody spell-bound. At the end, as the sun sets, she smites the rock—bing!—and the waterfall gushes forth—whish!—then she waves—tata! and vanishes."

SMALL BOSS REPORTED IN TWO BURGLARIES

Detectives Wednesday searched for clues as to the identity of the burglar who about 2 o'clock Wednesday morning ransacked the home of Edgar Chambers, vice president of the Park Chambers-Hardrock company, at 39 Springfield road, while members of the family slept.

The robbery was discovered when Mrs. Chambers was awakened by the noise the burglar made in going from one room to another. She called her husband, who was awakened as the thief made his exit through the basement.

Chambers found his trousers in the hall where they had been left by the robber, after his watch and some change had been taken.

Burglars later Wednesday night entered the residence of H. R. Friddle, 24 Lake avenue, and took two suits of clothes, leaving no trace of their identity, investigating officers declared.

Mr. Friddle said that he had missed nothing but the clothes, and could not understand why burglars left valuable and took the clothes. The family was not at home at the time of the robbery.

JUDGE RUSSELL ADDRESSES MASONIC CLUB LUNCHEON

Judge Richard B. Russell, chief justice of the Georgia supreme court, was principal speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Atlanta Masonic club at the Warwick hotel, at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday, delivering a witty address, and at its conclusion filed an application for membership.

He accepted unanimously. Willis P. Newman was winner of a pair of book ends. Music was furnished by Floyd W. Jennings, soloist, and Forrest C. Traylor, accompanist. Ford Clark reported that $20 had been donated to equipping the grounds for the Georgia Children's home.

The Atlanta trio, composed of Misses Winifred Bird, lyric soprano; Frances Stovall, pianist; and Lil Louise Smith, violinist, will furnish music at the meeting of the club next Wednesday at 12:30 o'clock. Peacock cafe, Charles N. Walker, president of the club, announced.

MRS. MARY POTTS DIES WEDNESDAY AT WARREN HOME

Mrs. Mary Potts, 83, died late Wednesday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. S. D. Warren, near East Point. Several weeks ago Mrs. Potts was stricken with paralysis, while attending Macedonia church, near Lithonia, and had been in ill health since that time.

Mrs. Potts was born in Henry county but spent practically all her life in Rockdale and Decatur counties. For the past few years she had made her home with her daughter. She was a member of the Primitive Baptist church and very active until a short time before her death.

Mrs. Potts was survived by Mrs. Warren and one daughter, Mrs. George Lassiter, of Lithonia; one son, J. D. Robertson, of Atlanta; and one brother, P. W. Cloutier, of Arab, Alabama.

Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

FORMER ATLANTIAN MARRIES HEIRESS IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, October 17.—(Special.) A romance which began at a dance a year ago culminated in a wedding yesterday afternoon in St. Thomas Episcopal church, it was learned today, when Miss Maude Adelaide Munn Jones, niece of the late Henry Glover, and herself vice president of the Henry Clay Glover company, Inc., was married to Francis Morgan Hughes, formerly of Atlanta.

Dr. S. P. D. Delaney, of the church of St. Mary The Virgin, performed the ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the bride's home, left for Bermuda today on their honeymoon to be gone until November 1.

The two made application for a marriage license on Saturday, and gave their ages as 28 and she as 30.

CELEBRATE NAVY DAY "Adequate National Defense Necessary," Says Walker.

Pointing out that "an adequate navy is one of the guarantees of peace," Governor Clifford Walker Wednesday issued a proclamation calling upon all citizens of Georgia to participate in the national "Navy day," which has been set for Saturday, October 27.

In his proclamation, Governor Walker says: "In the reaction following the world war and in the laudable effort to reduce the burden of great armaments, we must not overlook the vital need for national defense or so reduce our armed forces as to weaken our influence as an international force for peace and good will among nations."

The call concludes with the request that the people of the state so observe the occasion as to "send a message of courage and patriotism to the world in the name of the nation."

Georgia Tech students, headed by L. K. Patton, plan to raise $3,000 to support the work of Gene Turner at the Y. M. C. A. mission at Hang Chow, China. Other members of the campaign committee are: Gene Bryant, G. A. Chandler, George W. R. Reed, T. P. Pindexter, Carter Barrow, Harry Eiting, C. A. Phipps, C. G. Jones, and a faculty member not yet named.

Gene Turner was instrumental in securing the present Y. M. C. A. building at Tech, working with Dr. K. M. Matheson.

PARK STREET CHURCH WILL HEAR DR. BELK

Dr. S. R. Belk, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, will deliver the principal address tonight at the monthly banquet of the Men's association of the Park Street Methodist church. The members will assemble at 8:30 o'clock at the church.

Stiegitz To Speak. Charles H. Stiegitz, for many years general superintendent of the Bible school of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, will deliver an address on "Bible School Efficiency" at the church building on Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock before the regular weekly meeting of the "Workers," an organization composed of the teachers and officers of the Bible school. The general public is invited.

Italy Catholic Only in Name, Daniel Asserts

Rome, the Eternal City, with its colossal monuments like the Forum Romanum and the Coliseum, remnants of a past civilization, with its hallowed catacombs where legend has it Peter and Paul preached first the gospel, with its arena where the followers of Christ met a martyr's death, and its cathedral where the pope presides over the city of contrasts, was the subject of Dr. Charles W. Daniel of the First Baptist church Wednesday night.

The preacher has just returned from an extended visit to the continent and he intends to give a series of addresses on his observations and experiences there.

The doctor referred to the great agitation created in Rome by the building of a Methodist university on a hill overlooking the Vatican gardens.

"The hierarchy of the Roman Catholic church greatly opposed, but as the Methodists complied with the strict and scrupulous building regulations of Rome, the permit to build the training school could not be refused," he said.

"Italy is Roman Catholic only in name. The great factor in this looseness in religious affiliation is the fact that the church does not enter into the lives of men and women. An institution that builds cathedrals, superb masterpieces of architecture and sculpture, and neighborhood where squalor and poverty reign supreme, does not embody my conception of religion."

Emanuel monument in Rome is the overwhelming argument for Italian independence and unity, and if the pope lives in seclusion as prophet against the taking away of the temporal power, nobly will ever see the pope walk about in Rome, for there is not the slightest likelihood that his power will ever be taken away.

Dr. Daniel referred to the great progress made by the Baptist denomination in the heart of Catholicism. He pointed out that the taking of Rome, and recently a collection of ground has been purchased in the center of the city where a Baptist training college for ministers will be built," he said.

BANKERS TO CONVENE IN MARIETTA TODAY

Marietta, Ga., October 17.—(Special.) The Georgia Bankers' association, of the Atlanta Trust company, and chairman of the legislative committee, Georgia Bankers' association, and Dr. R. H. DeLoach, director of part of agriculture and research, Armour Fertilizer works, are the two principal speakers of Group No. 2, of the Georgia Bankers' association, which convenes in Marietta Thursday.

The meeting will be called to order in the chamber of commerce assembly rooms at 10 o'clock by Dr. R. H. DeLoach, who is the cashier of the First National Bank of Marietta. A fine program has been arranged. Dr. DeLoach will speak on "Roll Weevil Control." Mr. DeLoach will make an address on "Constructive Taxation."

Several brief talks from other prominent men also will feature the morning session.

Luncheon at the Golf club will follow the morning session. Dr. DeLoach will make a mobile ride to historic Kennesaw or other points of interest will be the order of the afternoon.

Bankers from all sections of North Georgia will be in Marietta for this semi-annual convention, and numbers of the state's most progressive citizens will be here to discuss ways and means of improving business conditions in general and banking in particular.

WEST POINT CITY IS SUED BY U. S. ON BRIDGE BILL

Columbus, Ga., October 17.—Suit against the city of West Point, Ga., for the sum of $2,404.99, with interest since 1921 at the rate of six per cent, was filed by C. P. Gerst, assistant district attorney, in United States court here today.

The suit alleges that the sum is owed the United States government for expenses in moving a pontoon bridge that had been used at West Point during the time the bridge was washed away by the flood of 1921.

The statement of expenses was signed by Brigadier-General Walter H. Berrien, then commander of Fort Benning, the army post near Columbus.

Berrien Jailed Again When Relative Cancels Bond Signed for Him

R. N. Berrien, Atlanta broker, was locked in the city jail Wednesday after returning from New York, where he went to answer a charge of larceny after arrest, and is now awaiting action by the Georgia supreme court on a charge of misappropriation of state funds.

Berrien was turned over to the authorities by his aunt, Miss Frances Berrien, of Houston, who had signed a bond of $15,000, court officials stated.

The charge against Berrien was filed in New York for $5,000, it was said. The amount was to be charged to misappropriation of state school funds.

Sometimes ago, after he had returned to the bond business, he was charged with misappropriation of New York firm's check for $5,000. He waived extradition and was taken to New York, where the charge was dropped. He has been settled by refusing the money.

PATROLMAN RESIGNS, TERMINATING CLASH

Columbus, Ga., October 17.—(Special.)—What is considered the latest heated battle of words in the Phoenix City council chamber in many years was mostly favorable for police officers of the city commission and representatives of the Civic Improvement League when the latter presented a petition for the immediate resignation of Policeman L. W. Jones, who was recently reinstated after being dismissed from the force for drunkenness.

Heated charges were leveled against the commission for its alleged negligence in effecting a clean-up of the community, and allegations were made against Policeman Jones in regard to his alleged failure to perform his duty while serving as chief of police of Girard for the past seven years.

Patrolman Jones, who was reinstated, was tendered his resignation. It was accepted.
